NEW TAILOR SHOP.

Herman Altman has rented the store apartment at 216 Strong's avenue, formerly used as an office by the G. A. Gullikson Co., and will soon open a tailor shop there. Mr. Altman, who is a tailor of 17 years' experience and a graduate of the American Gentleman school of cutting, Chicago, will specialize in custom-made and made-to-measure clothing for gentlemen and will also do cleaning, pressing and repairing for both ladies and gentlemen. He was for five years employed as tailor by the Continental and is an expert workman. The store room has been newly redecorated in the interior.

THE OPEN AIR SCHOOL.

The February number of The Crusader, published by the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis association, contained an interesting article on Kenosha's fresh air school, written by Mary B. Bradford, superintendent of schools of that city and a former member of the faculty of the Stevens Point Normal. Mrs. Bradford tells of the first open air school at Kenosha, which was in a canvas roofed back, and traces its development to the present, when it has a building constructed especially for it. She tells of the attendance, the daily program, the growth in interest and the results.

TRADE BOOSTERS WILL
BE HERE ON JUNE 15Milwaukee M. & M. Excursionists
To Wind Up 1917 Tour In Stevens Point.

The 17th annual trade excursion of the Merchants and Manufacturers association of Milwaukee, under the auspices of the jobbers' committee of that organization, will take place June 11th to 15th, inclusive. Stevens Point is included in the itinerary.

Eighty of the prominent jobbers, manufacturers and bankers of the metropolis of Wisconsin will arrive in this city on June 15th, at 4:15 p. m. and remain throughout the evening.

The excursion of the Merchants and Manufacturers association will, this year, be the most pretentious and complete booster trip ever taken by any commercial organization. The train which will convey the party will be the most modern and approved in railway equipment. It is furnished by the Soo line and will be solid electric lighted, vestibuled of all steel construction, consisting of three compartment pullman sleeping cars, two standard sleepers, buffet, observation, dining, baggage, and dynamo cars. It will be fully equipped with telephone exchange and service will be provided at all cities where the stop exceeds one hour.

The men who will form this party will be made up principally from the heads of jobbing houses, manufacturing establishments and financial institutions, the idea of this excursion being to cement more closely the business and personal relations already existing between merchants of the cities visited and those of Milwaukee, the members of the party desiring to learn as much as possible of the local industries and advantages of the cities visited. The leading Milwaukee newspapers will have representatives on the train to write up the stops made at each city and thus afford a most excellent opportunity for mutual publicity.

The Milwaukee men will appreciate thoroughly an opportunity to meet the representative business men of the various cities on the itinerary and to learn what each community has to offer in natural resources and lines of manufacture; also to establish a community of interest between the various cities in Wisconsin.

The Milwaukee men wish it understood that they come to receive as well as supply information, that this trip is intended to be a reciprocal affair of advantage both to the visitors and to the cities visited.

The party will be accompanied by a uniformed band of twenty-one pieces which will render programs in each of the cities visited. At the cities selected as night stops a special musical program will be arranged.

DISTRIBUTING SEED TESTERS.

Neat and useful seed testers, designed for ascertaining to a certainty the germinating qualities of corn, and other grains, are being given away by the Citizens National bank.

The testers come inclosed in a tin box about 8 inches square and five-eighths of an inch deep. In this is an absorbent pad divided into 100 tiny compartments. The pad rests upon a blotter on which are numbers for each compartment. In testing seed the pad and blotter are first saturated with water. The seeds are then dropped in and left for five days, when the live seed can be picked out. The farmer can therefore select for planting only the good seed and be reasonably sure of success with his crop.

AGED RESIDENT DIES.

J. T. Kimball Passes Away at Home of His Son in This City Thursday at Advanced Age.

Jay Thomas Kimball, aged 90 years, died at the home of his son, James Kimball, 726 Church street, at 1 o'clock last Thursday morning, death being caused by hardening of the arteries and a general breakdown. Although he had only been confined to his bed for two days prior to the end, he had been in poor health for the last several months.

The deceased was born in Augusta, Onondia county, New York, on the 13th of June, 1826. He received his early education in the public schools at that place and later was graduated from the Hamilton college of dentistry at Augusta, following which he practiced his profession there for several years. In 1853 he located at Erie, Pa., and in the fall of 1871 moved to Wisconsin. Mr. Kimball lived at Plover, Wis., until 1893 when he came to this city, where he had made his home ever since. He had lived with his son, James Kimball, for the last ten years.

Mr. Kimball was married to Miss Mary A. King at Augusta, New York in 1853. He is survived by five sons and two daughters as follows: R. N. Kimball of Chippewa Falls, N. N. Kimball of Wausau, J. C. Kimball of Glidden, R. C. Kimball of Merrill, James Kimball of this city, Mrs. E. A. Nelson of Fond du Lac and Miss Jessie Kimball, who is located in Michigan.

Funeral services were conducted at the Kimball home on Church street Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. James Blake of the Baptist church officiating.

HONOR REFLECTED ON LOCAL SCHOOLMiss Bessie Allen of Normal Faculty and Four Students on Important Mission.

Four Stevens Point people have been selected to head an important educational experiment in Morristown, New Jersey, and will leave Saturday of this week for that place. Mrs. Adelaide Byle, a wealthy resident of Morristown, has opened her summer home there, and the object of the new undertaking is two-fold: First, to ascertain the maximum instruction which can be given to ten children taken from the slums of New York City and placed under ideal conditions; second, to further experiments in home economics, the management of this to be left solely to those selected for the work, the only restriction being from a financial standpoint, which provides a maximum monthly allowance of $1,000.

Miss Bessie May Allen, head of the home economics department at the local Normal, Miss Josephine Powers, Miss Tena Routheaux and Miss Alice Winters, who are attending the Normal, and Miss Eileen Bohan of Antigo, who was graduated from the local school last June, will constitute the Wisconsin delegation to participate in the new movement. Twenty-five persons will live in the proposed "colony," ten children and fifteen adults. The experiment will continue for six months and if, at the end of that time, the results obtained have proved satisfactory to Mrs. Byle, the work will be continued. Miss Allen will remain in Morristown for one month but the others will not return to Wisconsin until June.

The project is associated with the Montessori system of education, and the children chosen for the experiment have been receiving Montessori instruction in New York City. The consummation of the movement is the result of suggestions proposed last summer, when Miss Allen was a guest at the home of Mrs. Byle in New York City, and partly through the efforts of the local lady it has been possible for the experiment to be made. Miss Allen will have entire charge of the financial supervision of the home during her month's residence in Morristown, and should the results of her efforts prove satisfactory to Mrs. Byle, further efforts will be made to establish similar homes for educational experiments throughout the United States.

From the home economics phase, the local young ladies will direct their attention to work in dietetics and household management. They will have charge of the preparation of the meals, which will be planned and balanced according to methods arrived at in the home economics department at the local Normal. The meals will be prepared at a reasonable cost. In addition, the ladies will have charge of the management of the home. All of those who have been selected to direct the experiment are recognized as experienced in modern home economics work and the selection of five people from the local Normal speaks well for the home economics department of the Stevens Point school.

Miss Powers, Miss Routheaux and Miss Winters are Seniors at the local Normal and will complete their work at the 1917 summer session. They will remain in Morristown until that time. Miss Allen has been granted a leave of absence for one month and will resume her work here at the end of that time. All of them expect to leave Saturday for New York City and from there will go to Morristown. Local people will watch with keen interest the result of the experiment in which Stevens Point people will take so important a part. The work of Miss Allen and associates will largely determine whether or not the experiment will become an established educational movement. Mrs. Byle is a wealthy resident of New York City and owns a home there as well as in Morristown, N. J.

SPECIAL VISITS COUNTY

School on Wheels Makes Stops at Plover and This City—Large
Crews Attend.

The "Good Seed Special," sent out by the Wisconsin Bankers' association, the University of Wisconsin and the Soo and St. Paul roads, arrived in Portage county last evening and made its first stop at Plover at 7:45 o'clock. Fully 150 people visited the train at Plover, including C. S. Orthman of this city, who had done considerable advance boosting for the project, and County Agent Coyner.

This morning the train was run to this city over the Soo line and was stationed near the Soo freight depot at the foot of Main street from 10 o'clock until noon. The attendance here was about 200, largely farmers. L. A. Pomeroy of Amherst joined the train here and accompanied it north this afternoon.

The special, which is in charge of Prof. R. A. Moore of the University, consists of three cars, in which displays of seed and farm machinery are shown and lectures given. The agricultural commissioner of the Soo line was with the train.

FAVOR REFERENDUM.

The first test of strength on the Evjue bill to submit the question of prohibition to a referendum of the voters of Wisconsin, came last Thursday, when the assembly, by a vote of 52 to 44, ordered the bill to engrossment. An amendment provides that the election be held in the spring instead of the fall in 1918. Assemblyman Whiteside of this county voted for the bill.

PAID HIGH HONOR

President Sims of Stevens Point Normal
Appointed to Important Committee.

The appointment of President John F. Sims as a member of the Committee of Ten on Rural Education has just been announced by President Robert J. Ally of the National Educational association.

This high honor came to President Sims in recognition of his activity in the Normal school department of the National association, and his influence in rural education, which is not confined to Wisconsin, but is nationwide. The Stevens Point Normal is also honored by the appointment, which will bring distinct advantages to the institution, which will now be in a position more than ever before to be in close touch with the big things in country school education.

The Committee of Ten will conduct its investigations in other countries besides the United States and its mission, in the light of the present tendency to raise the rural schools to a higher plane, is an important one.

WILL DEBATE OSHKOSH

Henry Beglinger, Tilden Moe and Miss Ida Brevard To Represent Junior Class of Local Normal.

For more than twenty years it has been the custom of the Oshkosh and Stevens Point Normals to participate annually in a dual debate between picked teams representing the Junior class of each institution. This year's contest will be staged at Oshkosh on Friday evening of this week and the honor of the local school upheld by Miss Ida Brevard, Tilden Moe and Henry Beglinger.

The question to be debated is, "Resolved, That the United States should adopt a universal system of compulsory military training." Stevens Point will uphold the negative. The speakers have been coached by Prof. M. M. Ames and this week have been putting on the finishing touches. The team is an exceptionally strong one and was chosen in December, when twelve Juniors contested in the try-out for membership.

Interest this year is unusually high as the results of the debates in past years now stands at a deadlock, each school having won the same number of contests. In the last five years Stevens Point has won three debates and the last two years was awarded unanimous decisions. In all of Oshkosh's victories, they have never received the vote of all three judges, the decisions resulting two to one.

Prof. Ames has made the Oshkosh-Stevens Point Junior debate one of the big inter-Normal affairs of the school and each year an increasing interest is shown in this branch of forensic work. It is expected that a large student delegation will go to the Sawdust city Friday afternoon for the annual debate, and return on the midnight train.

SOCIAL NOTES.

The Westminster club of the Presbyterian church, together with a few guests, about 20 in all, enjoyed a picnic supper in the church dining hall Monday evening. After the spread Mrs. C. W. Copps gave two readings and a business meeting was held.

The Woman's club will observe Art Day at its meeting at the library Saturday afternoon, when Mrs. J. M. Bischoff will be in charge. Prof. E. T. Smith of the Normal will give an address, "The History of Period Furniture," and Mrs. J. N. Welsby and Mrs. J. J. Heffron will lead a discussion on "China of the Whitehouse and Presidential Relics." There will also be a piano duet by Kathleen Clifford and Christina Gear and a vocal solo by Mrs. C. H. Vetter. Light refreshments will be served at the close.

HIS HEALTH IMPROVING.

John Ward, for the past few years machine tender in a print paper mill at Carthage, N. Y., is visiting at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Ward. John is convalescing from a surgical operation performed at Montreal, Can., on Feb. 8th, when ulcers were removed. It is believed that the ailment was brought on during his boyhood days, caused by drinking impure water, as he had had stomach trouble much of the time ever since. Medical advice had been consulted in many of the leading cities of this country and Europe, and various remedies were tried without much success. He also underwent previous surgical treatment and had a perfectly normal appendix removed. It is a pleasure to note that the young man is rapidly regaining health and strength.

PATRIOTIC FIRES
WILL BE KINDLEDMass Meeting To Be Held at Empire
Friday Evening To Stir Up
Cavalry Interest.

Stevens Point's smouldering fires of patriotism are due to flame up Friday evening, when a mass meeting will be held at Empire Amusement hall, principally for the purpose of stirring up interest in the proposed cavalry troop.

Weber's band will play patriotic airs and rousing speeches will be given. TAN effort is being made to have S. A. Cook and Lieut. Peterson of Neenah and John Jardine of Wau-paca on the program. Mr. Cook, who is one of Wisconsin's leading citizens, has taken a great interest in the National Guard and built the armory for the Neenah company. Lieut. Peterson was with the Guardsmen on the Mexican border and Mr. Jardine has taken an active interest in the movement for a company at Wau-paca.

Petitions asking for a cavalry troop for Stevens Point are being circulated and many signatures have been secured. C. W. Swan, a former member of the regular army and who saw active service in the Philippines and with the expeditionary force in the Boxer rebellion in China, and Fritz L. Rosenow, who is a member of the Marshfield National Guard Company, with which he served eight months on the Mexican border, are both actively engaged in the preliminary work.

Shut off by snow drifts which made roads impassable to the farm four miles from Odanah, two children, one a girl of eleven years and the other a boy of five, remained for two days with the dead body of their grandmother, Mrs. Carrie Butterfield. The girl, hysterical, then walked from the farm to Odanah for assistance. She first applied water to the forehead of her grandmother believing she had fainted.

RURAL STUDENTS WILL SPELL DOWN
Portage County Schools To Choose Representative For State Contest at Milwaukee.

Portage county rural schools, whose representative, Miss Norma Fewing of Plover, won first place in the state spelling contest at Milwaukee last year, are planning elimination contests to determine Portage county's 1917 spelling champion. The final contest will be held in this city in June in connection with the annual county commencement exercises.

The winner of the county championship will be sent to Milwaukee during the state fair week, when he or she will compete against the other county representatives. While the state contest is nominally a spelling contest, there is in connection with it a contest in arithmetic and one in writing, both of which must be entered.

The rules of the state contest limit competition to pupils in one-department rural schools or two-department state graded schools under the jurisdiction of county or district superintendents, only those who did not receive a common school or eighth grade diploma prior to September 1916, being allowed to participate.

There will be a contestant selected from each county in the following way: The county or district contest must be held under the charge and direction of the county superintendent, and at least fifty per cent of the schools in at least fifty per cent of the towns must be represented. The county representative is chosen by elimination in three contests, the first in the schools, the second in the towns, and the third at Waupun.

The contests are of three parts, spelling, arithmetic, and writing. The school contests may be conducted as the teacher sees fit, but at the town and county contest the following rules are to be observed:

Spelling—A written list of one hundred words, eighty of which are to be taken from the state fair list, and the remaining twenty to be any difficult common words.

Arithmetic—Problems in the four fundamental operations, three problems of fractions, and practical problems from the farm; the award shall be on speed and accuracy.

Writing—To be marked from the spelling paper, muscular writing to be considered.

Each contestant shall receive one third credit for each contest.

The state fair contest will be on Wednesday of state fair week. The contestants will have their expenses paid by the state fair association. The winner will receive a gold medal and each contestant will receive a badge.

The state fair association has sent out a list of two thousand words in connection with their printed list or rules. The words are nearly all common words, but include some of the most difficult to spell in the English language. Those who have studied spelling will recognize many old friends on the list, words such as erysipelas, chlorophyll, formaldehyde, hemorrhage, incomprehensible, mathematician, pericardium, etc. Many of the words, however, are the short, confusing, everyday words.

YOUNG MOTHER CALLED.
Mrs. Harold Beggs, wife of a graduate of the Stevens Point Normal, class of 1914, died at the family home in Almond on Tuesday of last week. Her death came less than a week after the birth of a daughter. Mrs. Beggs was a daughter of J. E. Gustin of Plainfield. The funeral was held Thursday from the English M. E. church at Almond. Rev. TO RAISE LARGE SUM.
A fund of nearly $200 has been raised in this city to be contributed to a movement begun in the United States to raise $10,000,000 for the aid of suffering Jews in the various belligerent nations. I. Shafston, Max Bloom and Sam Goldberg are in charge of the work here and the money has been raised entirely through donation. If the national sum is raised by Nov. 1, the time fixed by the New York committee, the fund will be increased by a gift of $1,000,000 from Julius Rosenwald, noted philanthropist and millionaire of Chicago.

STATE INSTRUCTS EMPLOYEES.
About 30 engineers and firemen in state institutions are enrolled in the three service courses for employees of state power plants that were arranged this winter by the civil service commission and the University of Wisconsin Extension division. The various studies of "Practical Hand Firing," "Heat," and "Steam Boilers" are being pursued regularly, and those who complete the course will receive a certificate issued by the two bodies concerned. State institutions whose employees are enrolled include Stout Institute, Menomonie, hospital for criminal insane and state prison, Waupun, Northern hospital for insane, Winnebago, industrial school for boys, Waukesha, state reformatory, Green Bay, state public school, Sparta, school for deaf, Delavan, home for feeble-minded, Chippewa Falls, state hospital, Mendota, state tuberculosis sanitarium, Wales, capitol power plant, Madison, normal schools at La Crosse, Eau Claire, Platteville, River Falls, Stevens Point, Superior, and Whitewater.

At the state convention of Royal Neighbors at Neenah last week officers were elected as follows: State orator, Mrs. Eva Childs, Hanover; vice-orator, Mrs. Mabel Drake, Alhambra; recorder, Mrs. Dora Fullerton, Milwaukee. Delegates from the eleven districts were named to attend the national convention at Buffalo in May and the 1920 state convention was awarded to Racine.

MADE LONG HIKE
Six Young Men Walk Through Snow From Stevens Point to Hancock During Storm.

The fact that the Portage line was without train service didn't prevent six young men from getting from Stevens Point to Hancock during the snow storm two weeks ago. Their experience is related by the Hancock News of last week as follows:
Six young men reached Stevens Point last week Thursday intending to come down on the Soo branch train. On hearing of the blockade they started out to walk home. They left Stevens Point Thursday evening at 5 and arrived in Hancock Friday morning at 6, all with a good appetite for breakfast as they ate nothing on the way down. Archie Burge, who had been working in the woods in Price county, Ellsworth Fay, who had been visiting his folks at Stone Lake, and Wade Wellner, who had been employed by the Deltex Grass Rug Co. at Oshkosh, were three of the allnight "hikers." Two of the others were bound for Westfield and one for Endeavor. After breakfast in Hancock these three continued their journey southward.
From Stevens Point the party walked on the drifts down the railroad right-of-way to Plainfield. In that whole distance they saw only about two miles of open track, the rest being covered with snow from a few inches to 15 or 18 feet deep. From Plainfield they followed the sleigh track to Hancock.

TWO HUNDRED
HOLSTEIN, GUERNSEY OR JERSEY CALVES

For the Boys and Girls of Portage County

Read Carefully All the Particulars and Then Become a Member of the Calf Club. This will be a Great Opportunity for Boys and Girls and the Parents Should Encourage Them.

The First National Bank
will organize a
CALF CLUB

And Distribute Two Hundred Holstein, Guernsey and Jersey Heifer Calves among the Boys and Girls of Portage County under sixteen years of age who are properly prepared to take care of a calf. The calves will be selected by J. M. Coyner, County Agent, S. Earl Carley of Buena Vista, Arthur Peterson of Nelsonville and Claire Eckles of Plover, and will be old enough to live on pasture.

HERE IS OUR PLAN:
When two hundred boys and girls have subscribed for calves we will purchase the calves and bring them to Stevens Point and notify you of the day and date of distribution.
On the day of distribution the calves will be marked with the price and numbered. Each boy or girl will draw a number from a box and the calf bearing the corresponding number will be theirs on the payment of the amount marked on the calf, which amount will be the actual price we paid for the calf plus the freight charges.

WE WILL ACCEPT YOUR NOTE
We will accept your note in payment of the calf, your father, guardian or friend signing with you. The notes will draw six per cent interest and will run until next fall, when all the calves will be brought in and sold at public auction.
Auction day will be a gala day for the boys and girls of the Calf Club, when each calf groomed, brushed, sleek and shining, led by its proud owner, will be sold to the highest bidder. The owner will receive the amount the calf brings at the sale, pay off his note with interest and keep the balance of the money. Or if you would rather pay your note and keep the calf you can do so.

Be the One to Get the Cash Prize
THE BOY OR GIRL OWNING THE CALF THAT SHOWS THE GREATEST PER CENT OF PROFIT AT THE SALE WILL RECEIVE A "CASH PRIZE."
This is the biggest calf club ever organized, boys and girls, and we want you to Help us Boost It and Boost Portage County. We will have your name placed on the mailing list of the Dairy Department at Washington, D. C., and you will receive circulars giving you advice as to the best method of taking care of calves, etc.

It may be all right to take a chance on storm windows, but keep the heavies on.

R. D. Marshall is seeking reelection to the supreme court and should be returned to the state's highest tribunal by a handsome majority. Justice Marshall has rendered the state distinguished service and there is no good reason why his services should not be retained. Attorney General Walter C. Owen, who opposes him, is an able lawyer and would undoubtedly make an excellent justice, but he might well have waited for a more opportune time to attempt to carry out his judicial aspirations. The defeat of Justice Marshall, which seems unlikely, would be a severe blow to the state at this time.

Opposition to compulsory military training is steadily growing weaker as the possibility of the United States actively entering the war grows. The plan is to enroll youths of 19 and to give them a rigid course of military training, so that in a few years an experienced reserve army would be available on short notice. Pacifists argue that compulsory military training is analogous to militarism. More practical men point out that compulsory military training is a safeguard against war and that the benefits derived by the individual and the nation would far outweigh any harm that might possibly result. Trained soldiers stand less chance of being called to war than untrained civilians, because the nation that is prepared for defense is less apt to become involved in war. Furthermore, as one man puts it, a man who has had military training is no more likely to want war than is the man who has served on a fire department likely to be inclined toward incendiarism.

Is peace in sight? Many keen students of current events look for an early cessation of hostilities in Europe, basing their hopes on the following significant facts:

Germany's campaign of ruthless submarine warfare has, according to authentic reports, fallen far short of accomplishing what she started out to do.

Hundreds of square miles of French territory and scores of cities and villages, captured through the sacrifice of thousands of German lives, have been abandoned before the steady advance of the French and English, with little resistance.

Rumors of internal trouble in Germany indicate that the food shortage is growing serious among the civilian population, while even a member of the German law-making body has protested against "Prussian militarism."

Considering all these developments, is it not reasonable to presume that Germany, her resources, both in men and material, sorely drained, and her people, brought to a realization of the folly of continuing the hopeless struggle almost single-handed and suffering from the lack of the necessities of human existence, is nearing the end of her powers?

Is it not possible that the German people, satisfied that the government, fearful of the consequences when peace shall come, will make no definite move to put an end to the awful carnage, will take the power in their own hands, as Russia has done, and work for their own best interests?

Rumblings of internal dissension, though inconsequential on the surface, indicate a growing distrust of the German people in their government. With Russia a democracy, absolutism has its chief exponent in the Hohenzollerns. When the Hohenzollerns go, it is the belief of some of the world's greatest minds, a wave of democracy will engulf the world and the crowned heads will be forced into oblivion.

This has been essentially a war of kings, and if autocracy is to be abolished, the strongest must fall first. Russia, dark, suffering Russia—has broken the shackles that have imprisoned her; the emancipation came so suddenly and with so little opposition that one can hardly realize that it is all true. Germany, with its millions of enlightened but misled people, must come next. The rest will be easy.

Surely the war, with its awful loss in life and property, the suffering it has caused to millions, is the triumph of democracy. That it is drawing to a close and that the lesson so dearly paid for will make future wars impossible, is a prediction that should bring a ray of hope to suffering humanity.

GUESS WHO THEY ARE

Reproduction of Pictures Printed in The Gazette Within Past Several Years.

The pictures printed in this column last week showed the features of two prominent Stevens Pointers who answered the final summons a few years ago and another gentleman who is now the leading merchant at Rudolph village, Wood county. No. 19, the first of the trio, was that of Chas. A. Lane, for many years county clerk of Portage county; No. 20 gave a young manhood likeness of A. J. Kujawa, now of Rudolph, and No. 21 was easily recognized as the features of M. Clifford, a former local merchant but who represented a life insurance company during his latter years.

BUYS CAR OF SEED

County Representative of Walworth County Buys Potatoes Near Amherst Junction.

Farmers of Walworth county will grow potatoes from Portage county seed stock during the coming season, a carload of 700 bushels of high grade Rural New Yorkers having been purchased by L. L. Oldham, county representative of Walworth county, from John Ebert, who lives near Amherst Junction, last Saturday. The price paid was $2 a bushel.

Mr. Oldham came to this county for the express purpose of getting seed potatoes for about 125 farmers in his county, who subscribed for seed in amounts ranging from four to twelve bushels. He went from this city to Amherst Junction by train Saturday, with County Agent Coyner, and the two farm experts experienced much difficulty in reaching the Ebert farm, which is about three miles from the station. The roads, due to the surplus of water and the softening of the snow, were almost impassable. Mr. Ebert has some particularly fine stock, although not certified, and he will ship them to Elkhorn as soon as road conditions are favorable.

The fact that outside farmers are looking to Portage county for seed stock can be traced directly to the standardization work that has been done by the farmers of this county, especially since County Agent Coyner began work. The rural New Yorker is the favorite variety among those who have taken up specialization, with the Green Mountain second. Should 1918 be a good year it is certain that the demands made on Portage county for seed potatoes will be much greater.

A certificate of convenience and necessity has been granted by the railroad commission of Wisconsin to the Green Bay & Western Railway company, an electric line which proposes to build from Green Bay through Manitowoc to Sheboygan. It is expected plans for actual construction work will be outlined by the company soon.

Office of City Clerk, Stevens Point, Wis., March 17, 1917

TO THE ELECTORS OF STEVENS POINT WIS:

Notice is hereby given that a municipal election is to be held in the several wards and election precincts in the city of Stevens Point on the third day of April, A. D. 1917.

The polls and voting places in the several wards will be as follows: First Ward, Engine House No. 1, North Second street; Second ward, Engine House No. 2, Strong's avenue; Third ward, Election Booth, Fremont street; Fourth ward, Olson's Boarding House, First and Franklin streets; Fifth ward, Election Booth, Dixon street; Sixth ward, Election Booth, Henrietta street.

Said polls will be open at 6 o'clock in the morning and close at 8 o'clock in the evening of said day. Said election to be held and conducted, votes canvassed and returns made, in accordance with law.

INFORMATION TO VOTERS

The following instructions are given for the information and guidance of voters:

(a) A voter upon entering the polling place and giving his name and residence, will receive a ballot from the ballot clerk which must have endorsed thereon the names or initials of both ballot clerks, and no other ballot can be used. Upon receiving his ballot, the voter must retire alone to a booth or compartment and prepare the same for voting. A ballot clerk may inform the voter as to the proper manner of marking the ballot, but he must not advise or indicate in any manner whom to vote for.

(b) A voter shall mark his ballot by making a cross or mark in the square at the right of the name of the candidate for whom he intends to vote or by inserting or writing in the name of the candidate.

(c) The ballot should not be marked in any other manner. If the ballot be spoiled, it must be returned to the ballot clerk, who must issue another in its stead, but not more than three in all shall be issued to any one voter. Five minutes' time is allowed in booth to mark ballot. Unofficial ballots or memorandum to assist the voter in marking his ballot can be taken into the booth, and may be used to copy from. The ballot must not be shown so that any person can see how it has been marked by the voter.

(d) After it is marked it should be folded so that the inside cannot be seen, but so that the printed endorsements and signatures of the ballot clerks on the outside may be seen. Then the voter should pass out of the booth or compartment, give his name to the inspector in charge of the ballot box, hand him his ballot to be placed in the box, and pass out of the voting place.

(e) A voter, who declares to the presiding officer that he is unable to read, or that by reason of physical disability he is unable to mark his ballot, can have assistance of one or two election officers in marking same, to be chosen by the voter; and if he declares that he is totally blind, he may be assisted by any person chosen by him from among the legal voters of the county. The presiding officer may administer an oath in his discretion as to such person's disability.

Given under my hand and official seal at the city of Stevens Point, this 17th day of March, 1917.

The following is a fac-simile of the official ballot.

A Great Discovery

Swollen hands, aches, feet are due to a dropsical condition, often caused by disordered kidneys. Naturally when the kidneys are deranged the blood is filled with poisonous waste matter, which settles in the feet, ankles and wrists, or under the eyes in bag-like formations.

As a remedy for those easily recognized symptoms of inflammation caused by uric acid—as scalding urine, backache and frequent urination, as well as sediment in the urine, or if uric acid in the blood has caused rheumatism, lumbago, sciatica, gout, it is simply wonderful how quickly Anuric acts: the pains and stiffness rapidly disappear.

The very best possible way to take care of yourself is to take a glass of hot water before meals and Anuric, the discovery of Dr. Pierce of Buffalo.

Step into a drug store and ask for a 50c. package of Anuric, which is many times more potent than lithia and eliminates uric acid as hot water melts sugar. A short trial will convince you.

A WISCONSIN WOMAN SAYS.

Madison, Wis.—“There is no better tonic than Dr. Pierce’s Golden Medical Discovery. I was working in a store some years ago and the confinement, together with the work, would cause me to get run-down. The ‘Discovery’ would always build me up in just a short time. I have also found Dr. Pierce’s Pleasant Pellets to be equally good. I once used the ‘Favorite Prescription’ for woman’s weakness, doctors did not help. I was ailing for about two years with this trouble and the ‘Prescription’ cured me in six months and no trouble since.”—MRS. MARY JOHNSON, 8 S. Blair Street.

Marshfield Herald: Plans and specifications have been drawn, it is understood, by a Milwaukee architect for the building of another addition to St. Joseph's hospital, already a mammoth affair but inadequate in the present for the needs of the immense patronage that institution has. The Wisconsin dam, which, next to the Keokuk dam, is claimed to be the greatest hydro-electric dam on the American continent, was set in operation a few days ago when the current started over the transmission line to St. Paul and Minneapolis. The dam is situated about 15 miles northwest of Eau Claire and represents an outlay to date of more than $4,000,000. It was begun in October, 1915, and an average of 1,100 men have been constantly employed. It is 6,910 feet long and the back water from it covers about 7,000 acres.

Amherst Advocate, March 22.—As was stated in a former issue of this paper, the local Modern Woodmen are talking of erecting a hall of their own this coming summer. They propose to purchase a lot of the village, just north of the L. J. Carey & Co.'s furniture store, and the building they are in favor of will be two stories and a basement. The lower floor will be a fine store building and the second floor a lodge hall. The plan is to sell stock among the Woodmen members and this is meeting with great favor so far. At a meeting Monday evening, which was attended by less than one-sixth of the membership of the local organization, $400.00 worth of stock was subscribed and as the plans of the committee require about $2,000 worth of stock to be sold, the hall looks like an assured success.

Waupaca Record-Leader, Mar. 23: A petition was circulated this week, asking for a vote on “saloon license” at the coming election, and it is reported the papers will be filed on Saturday, the last day for filing. The circulation of the petition has been done very secretly, an effort being made to keep knowledge of it from the dry forces, which have won three times in this city, but the fact leaked out as such things will. While there is and has always been considerable “wet sentiment” in Waupaca, many of the prominent men who formerly favored the saloon side, are now opposed to having them back, and many more will vote against saloons if the question is put up again. This effort of the breweries may however cause the opposition to secure a greater degree of law enforcement, violations of the liquor laws being common here.

The Government is a Partner in the Brewing Industry

THE partnership of our Government and the Brewing Industry was entered into during the Civil War for the purpose of increasing war revenues. The bill creating this partnership was signed by President Lincoln with the distinct understanding that the measure would be repealed as soon as war conditions justified its repeal.

As a matter of fact the Brewers of America voluntarily tendered the Government the sum of 50 cents per barrel on every barrel of beer brewed. This was done by the Brewers in a spirit of loyalty, fairness and justice—a willingness to bear their full share of the heavy war revenues.

The United States Government accepted the Brewers' offer with the understanding that it was but a temporary relief measure which, in the opinion of Lincoln, would be repealed as soon as war conditions justified its repeal.

But that which was voluntarily tendered to the Government as a contribution—and was accepted as such—has since been imposed as a permanent tax. Not only that but the tax has been doubled and tripled. The beer tax was 50 cents a barrel for many years after the Civil War. The normal tax was later increased to $1.00 and at the beginning of the Spanish-American war in 1898, the tax was jumped to $2.00 per barrel.

After the war was over, the normal tax of $1.00 prevailed until 1914 when the Emergency act raised the tax to $1.50 per barrel—and every Brewery in America is paying that sum to the Government now.

Can one partner in a business take away his partner's share without just compensation? Certainly not!

If you were in business with another and you could not agree, you would buy out your partner, or he would buy you out, paying a fair price for the business. There would be no confiscation—no taking the partner's property without fair or just payment therefore. Such procedure would be robbery.

In fairness or justice, then, can Government—be it National, or State, or Municipal—take away its partner's interest in a business without fair and just compensation?

When anyone's property or business—his source of income or livelihood—is taken away or destroyed by legislation—by an act of the voters—by your act, if you please—is not the one so injured entitled to compensation for his loss?

You would not want your business destroyed by legislation without compensation—would you be a party to legislation that would deny the same right to others?

Remember this—
Compensation simply means that fair payment shall be made for whatever property is destroyed by the vote of the people.

Would you forcefully take anything that did not belong to you without paying for it?

Think it over!

Miss Boursier is a lady of fine education and pleasing manners, who has proved herself to be a capable and progressive teacher. In this connection it may be mentioned that a bill is now pending in our legislature which provides that no person shall be eligible to this office who has not taught for at least eight months in rural schools, and has had at least twenty-four months of experience in teaching. Miss Boursier made a very favorable impression here and will doubtless get a fine vote in Amherst.

Miss Ethel Pratt, who is teaching at Muskegon, Mich., arrived home Saturday for a visit with relatives and friends.

Married, at the Baptist parsonage on Thursday, March 22nd, Miss Mabel Spear, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Spear, to Jay Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Millard Smith. Congratulations.

Married, March 23, at the W. H. Rice home, their only daughter, Miss Mabel, to Ira Shippee, and Miss Margaret Wood to Earl Rice, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Rice. These young people are all well and favorably known and Plainfield friends extend congratulations.

DANCY.

The recent thaw will greatly assist the electioneers in mud slinging.

One could hardly believe today, with the snow nearly gone, that only a week ago the country was blockaded. A few days' time can bring big changes.

F. A. Meincke and family of Eau Claire left the first of the week for Canada, where they expect to make their home. Mr. Landy of Rudolph has moved into the Meincke home.

About the only place the poor man will have it over on the rich man will be when he reaches the "Pearly Gates" he will not have such a hard time giving an account of his stewardship.

A letter received here states that Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Musil are well and happy in their home in Nebraska. Mrs. Musil was Mrs. Mary Wheaton, a resident of this village for some years and later residing with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chris Tufta near Junction City. Mr. Musil is one of Nebraska's leading real estate and insurance men.

James A. Bremmer of Stevens Point with V. Brooks and the latter's son and son-in-law of Albany, N. Y., were in Dancy over Friday night.

Mr. Brooks accompanied his son on the return trip east and will make his home at Albany. Owing to his advanced age and feeble condition, he being nearly 90 years, it is not likely that Mr. Brooks will ever return to this section. All his old friends here regretted to see him go.

Mr. Brooks was a resident of this section for over fifty years and was at one time one of the Wisconsin river valley's leading lumbermen. He is among the last of the pioneers. Like all of the first settlers, he saw many ups and downs, good and bad days. He will now no doubt pass the evening of his life in comfort, as his eastern relatives are reputed as the possessors of much worldly goods.

BANCROFT.

John Barker was a Plainfield caller Monday.

Mrs. George Rogers is confined to her bed. Her health is very poorly this winter.

John Wilson spent a few days last week in Chicago, returning home Thursday night.

Meedames Milton Wood and James Calverly attended the funeral of Mrs. H. Beggs at Almond last Thursday afternoon.

Fred Gustin attended the funeral of his sister, Mrs. H. Beggs at Almond last Thursday. All extend sympathy to the sorrowing relatives.

The following ticket for a union free high school will be voted on at the election April 3rd. For clerk for one year, M. P. Kjer; for treasurer for two years, L. A. Pomeroy; for director for three years, Fred Shanklin. If the free high school proposition does not carry, the officers will have an easy time.

Louis Peterson died at Lakeside hospital, Oshkosh, Thursday afternoon. The body arrived here Friday and was taken to the home of his aunt, Mrs. Ole Larson, where the funeral was held Sunday afternoon.

His immediate family consists of his mother and two brothers, Thos. Peterson of Nelsonville, and Oscar at home, who have the sympathy of the community in their great loss.

Miss Loretta Boursier of Buena Vista, candidate for county superintendent of schools, visited Amherst last Friday. Miss Boursier is a lady of fine education and pleasing manners, who has proved herself to be a capable and progressive teacher. She has had ample experience as an educator, having taught for about fifteen years in our public schools, and as most of her work has been in our rural schools—the only class of schools now particularly under the supervision of the county superintendent, the high schools and graded schools now being under the direct supervision of the state superintendent through state inspectors—she is especially well qualified to discharge the duties of county superintendent. In this connection it may be men-

NAME HONOR STUDENTS

Normalites Receiving Excellent Record and Honorable Mention for First Semester Announced.

Prof. F. N. Spindler of the Normal faculty has completed a list of the students in the various departments in the Normal Roll for the first semester of the present school year. The women have proved themselves far in advance of the men in both "Excellent" and "Honorable Mention" although the record as a whole is a splendid one.

The following students received 90% or above in all subjects during the semester, gymnasium excepted, and are therefore entitled to mention as "Excellent":

High School Teachers' Department—Lydia Bauer, Weyauwega; Marjorie Boston, Stevens Point; Hattie Cone, Marshall; Pearl Heffron, Stevens Point; Blanche Hill, Weyauwega; Violet Hill, Cumberland; Louise Jacobs, Stevens Point; Avada Ostrom, Hancock; Clara Wilhelm, Marshfield. Total, nine women.

Grammar Grade Teachers' Department—Lydia Clark, Stevens Point; Blanche Gates, Neillsville; Faith Griggs, Stevens Point; Minnie Horn, Barton; Karen Jacobson, Withee; Sarah Kurkowski, Amherst; Mrs. J. A. Rice, Stevens Point; Hatley B. Wiley, Hancock. Total, seven women.

Primary Teachers' Department—Lillian Hanson, Lela Hudson, Stevens Point; Lila Paap, Weyauwega; Ada Wiley, Hancock. Total, three women.

School Teachers' Department—Thy Colby, Adams; Gladys Stevens Point; Clara Liechty; Lucy Rozell, Plainfield. Total, four women.

Normal Course—Lillian Bialozynska, Stevens Point; Martha Peterson, Milladore; Theresa Laughman, Stevens Point. Total, three women.

Honor Roll—Honor Hartlet, Milwaukee.

Summary of Excellents: Twenty-nine out of six hundred thirty-five students equals 4.56% as compared with 3.65% the second semester last year. Twenty-eight women excellents or 4.4% compared to 3.36% second semester last year. One man excellent or .15 of 1% compared to .19 of 1% second semester last year. There should be at least six men who attained excellents to equal the number of excellents obtained by the women.

The honorable mention list, or students who have obtained an average of 90% or above in all subjects for the first semester 1916-17, gymnasium excepted, records 14 women and three men for the High school course, 10 women and 2 men for the Grammar course, 12 women in the Primary department, 16 women in the Home Economics department, 15 women in the Rural School Teachers' department and 4 women in the academic course.

In the summary of honorable mention there are 76 out of 635 or 12% compared to 11.6% second semester last year. There are 71 women out of 635 of 11.1% compared to 10.4% 1915-16, and 5 men out of 635 or .9 of 1% compared to 1.2% second semester 1915-16. There should be twelve men here.

In the final ranking of the departments, the High school stands first with 29.5% showing a gain over the second semester 1915-16, the Grammar second with 21.2%, recording a loss, the Home Economics department third, with 15.7%, also showing a loss, the Primary fourth with 13.9% loss, the Rural fifth with 12.5%, a gain, and the Academic sixth with 9.4%, showing a loss.

Through the announcement semi-annually of the standings of the students of the Normal and the recognition of those receiving standings above a certain mark, an incentive is established for all to strive for a higher standard in their work. The movement begun sometime ago has been systematized and through comparison with the foregoing year can be ascertained whether the grades show an improvement or a decline. Substantial gains this year show a growing interest on the part of the Normal students to direct their attention toward scholarship.

JAIL IS EMPTY.

With the release yesterday afternoon of August Stankie, who was being held for trial in the circuit court on an abandonment charge, the county jail holds no prisoners. Stankie, who had been confined for several weeks, was released on his own recognizance. An empty jail is unusual, but not without precedent. When John F. Kubisiak, the present sheriff, held the office two years ago, a similar incident occurred.

OBSERVE BABY WEEK.

The Anna Gordon W. C. T. U. will have charge of Stevens Point's observance of National Baby Week, May 1 to 6. Mrs. D. J. Leahy, who had general charge of a similar project a year ago, under the auspices of the Woman's club, will be chairman again this year. The University of Wisconsin extension division and other institutions offer cooperation to cities furthering the movement. The details of this year's program have not been worked out, but in general it will be along the same lines as in 1916, when the observance was a marked success.

THE WHY OF IT.

The reason for the high cost of meat, butter, milk and leather is the slaughter of veal calves, according to the state food department. There are 6,000,000 less cows in the United States than there were 15 years ago, and 24,000,000 more people. The killing of calves before reaching maturity is directly responsible for the high cost of calf products, such as that planned by the First National Bank of this city as one way of correcting the evil.

ANNUAL MEETING TONIGHT.

The annual meeting of the members of the church and congregation of the Presbyterian church will be held this evening. The ladies will serve supper at 6:30 o'clock, following which reports from the officers of the church and the various organizations will be presented, officers elected and other business transacted. Work is being completed on a number of improvements in the church, making a fitting close to a successful year. The Sunday school rooms have been redecorated and handsome new electric light fixtures installed in those rooms, in the entrances, outside the entrances and in the dining hall. The new fixtures were presented by Miss Carrie J. Frost in memory of her mother, the late Mrs. John C. Frost, and those in the Sunday school rooms and entrances are similar to the fixtures recently installed by Mrs. D. J. Leahy in memory of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Tyson.

He Knew.

"Mr. Fussler," said the professor, "can you tell me the meaning of the title 'Sir'?" "I don't know the exact meaning," replied the student, "but that's what a girl says when the wrong chap kisses her."

A LOYAL CITIZEN.

Gustave Borth, Sr., who served as town clerk of Eau Claire township continuously for a period of twenty years prior to last spring, has been re-nominated for this important position and will be a candidate at the polls next Tuesday. Although of German birth, Mr. Borth is a thorough citizen of his adopted land and it is safe to assume that there is no better American than he. For political effect, it had been reported that he made disloyal remarks regarding the trouble between the two countries, which allegations the Eau Claire gentleman denies emphatically. He has been a resident of Portage county since early manhood and enjoys the confidence and good will of all who know him.

SOCIAL HAPPENINGS of INTEREST

Adolph Cook, a well known resident of the Sixth ward, was 76 years of age last Sunday and the event was fittingly celebrated that evening by some twenty lady and gentleman friends, who called at his home in a body, laden with good things to eat, and took complete possession of the house. Mr. Cook had no inkling of the intended raid, but he surrendered gracefully and peacefully and took an active part in the festivities.

Twenty-five couples attended an enjoyable dancing party at the Masonic temple last Friday evening, given for Masons and their ladies. Weber's orchestra rendered a pleasing program of one-steps, two steps and waltzes and dancing continued from nine to twelve o'clock. Luncheon was served at midnight. Another party is planned for Friday evening, April 27.

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Gordon of Nelsonville celebrated their silver wedding anniversary last Saturday, when a social gathering was held at their home in the afternoon and evening. Supper was served and the anniversary made a memorable one. The Gordon home is on Gordondale dairy farm, where one of the finest herds of Guernseys in the state is quartered. Mr. Gordon, who is a brother of M. L. Gordon of this city, is president of the Portage and Waupaca Counties Guernsey Breeders' association.

The many friends of Miss Winifred Lamb, whose home is in this city, and who appeared in recital at the local Normal auditorium last week, will be interested in reading press notices which appeared in Chicago papers following the recital which she gave in that city recently.

Felix Borowski, critic for the Chicago Herald, who was able to hear only a part of her program said: "Miss Winifred Lamb, pianist, gave a recital yesterday at the Playhouse. Of her program there could be heard only the B flat minor sonata by Chopin. The player disclosed uncommon poetry of interpretation in this and her efforts well deserved the enthusiasm which greeted them. There can be no doubt of Miss Lamb's talent for the work which she set herself to do at this recital. Her fingers are fluent, her touch is fine and there is music in her soul."

Herman Devries, in the Chicago Examiner, said, "Miss Winifred Lamb, one of the younger local pianists, a member of the faculty of the Cosmopolitan School of Music, had a good audience in spite of competition in other concert halls, for her recital at the Playhouse. I heard her play Schumann's 'Etudes Symphoniques' with fluent and precise technique and much sincerity and dignity of conception. Her audience was encouragingly approving."

Mr. Hackett in the Evening Post had the following to say: "It was possible for me to hear but a small part of the piano recital of Miss Winifred Lamb at the Playhouse, but that little was very pleasing. The tone was warm in color, there was fine rhythmic accent and musicianly understanding of the meaning of what she was doing."

The Chicago Daily Journal: "Only the Bach selections could be heard in the piano recital by Winifred Lamb at the Playhouse. One was Busoni's transcription of the chorale, 'In dir ist Freude,' the other the C minor prelude and fugue from the 'Well Tempered Clavichord.' These were so well played that it was easy to predict an excellent performance of the fashionable B flat minor sonata by Chopin. This, however, came at the end of the programme, and the pleasure of hearing it for the fourteenth or fifteenth time this season had to be denied. Miss Lamb has breadth and warmth in her playing, and she does not seem to share the common delusion that because Bach has been dead these many years his music should be played with the 'classical restraint' that makes it sound dead. She played as though the music was easy for her, and as though she enjoyed it."

A birthday surprise was tendered Mrs. Robert Wilson at her home on Ellis street last Thursday evening by a group of friends. Various entertainment features were provided and refreshments served.

The active members of the Tau Gamma Beta Sorority have issued invitations for the annual sorority dancing party, to be held at the Parish House Friday evening, April 20. Dancing will begin at 8 and continue to 1, with the grand march at 8:30. Weber's orchestra will play. The sorority parties have always been among the most popular post-lenten social events.

Invitations for the annual junior prom of the Stevens Point High school have been issued by the class of 1918. The event will take place at the Parish House on Friday evening, April 13, and, as in other years, is expected to be a fine success.

F. J. Blood, speaker of St. Stephen's court of Foresters, is making arrangements for a dancing party to be given by this organization at K. C. Hall on the evening of Thursday, April 12th.

David Oberweiser celebrated his eighth birthday anniversary last Friday by entertaining sixteen of his boy and girl friends at a bowling party at the Parish House in the afternoon. After the little folks had finished making strikes and spares, they returned to the home of their host's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. A.

Oberweiser, on Main street, where tempting refreshments were served. A pink and white color scheme was used in the house decorations.

Invitations have been issued by Stevens Point lodge No. 641, B. P. O. E., for their annual Easter dancing party, to be held at the Parish House on Monday evening, April 9.

Marriage licenses have been issued to the following: Max Kruzicki and Verna Leventowski, both of Stevens Point; Anton Zivney and Fannie Koel, both of Junction City.

Mrs. W. L. Arnott, one of Stevens Point's most aged residents, celebrated her eighty-fifth anniversary last Sunday, and in the afternoon many of her friends called at her home on Reserve street to extend congratulations. Refreshments were served and the day was a happy one, especially for Mrs. Arnott, who, despite her advanced age, is active and in full possession of her faculties. She is able to read without glasses and her general health is good. Mrs. Arnott has been a resident of Portage county since 1864 and Arnott station was named after the family. Stevens Point has been the family home since 1902.

TUBER TALKS.

(A series of timely paragraphs on potato development work in Wisconsin by James G. Milward, College of Agriculture.)

II. TREATMENT OF SEED STOCK

The condition of potato seed stock this year in regard to scab and scurf makes it highly advisable to practice seed treatment as a step in the control of these maladies.

Too much attention cannot be called to the real necessity of following instructions implicitly. Carelessness or indifference in this matter may mean serious loss.

The seed stock may be treated in crates, sacks, or loosely in barrels, according to convenience and amount to be treated.

One pint of formalin or formaldehyde mixed with 30 gallons of water is used as a bath for the potatoes. The seed stock is soaked in the solution for two hours before cutting.

Corrosive sublimate, four ounces, to 30 gallons of water, is the other mixture used. The potatoes are soaked in this for an hour and one-half before cutting. Dissolve chemical powdered form in hot water and add to required water. Do not use metal vessels.

After submerging in the solution for the required length of time, the crates of potatoes are removed, washed with clean water, to remove all traces of the solution used, and then promptly dried. The same principles apply when the tubers are placed in sacks and dipped in barrels for treatment.

These cautions are worth noting: The corrosive sublimate is a deadly poison, and by all means should be kept out of reach of children or live stock.

The seed potatoes should be treated before they start active sprouting. Otherwise they may be injured by the treatment.

The sooner the potatoes are washed and dried after the treatment the better.

The same mixture should not be used for more than four treatments. Every gallon of solution will treat a total of from 12 to 16 bushels.

WHY AND HOW TO DISINFECT SEED POTATOES.

(By R. E. Vaughan, University of Wisconsin College of Agriculture.)

Disease Injures Product.

Common scab and black scurf (Rhizoctonia) injure the appearance and reduce the market value of Wisconsin potatoes. This is especially true where they are to be used for seed.

Black leg also causes considerable loss in some fields. Farmers frequently do not recognize these troubles and fail to understand the discrimination against their seed.

Scab is the name given to the rough, corky spots on the surface of the tubers. It is caused by a fungus that lives in the spots and once it is introduced may live for several years in the soil.

Black scurf is sometimes spoken of as the "dirt that won't wash off." It is also caused by a fungus.

Black leg causes a rot at the base of the stem and sometimes on the tubers. It is caused by bacteria.

Seed disinfection prevents loss from black leg and is the best remedy for scab and black scurf. Disinfected seed should be planted on clean soil. Rotation of crops is also of benefit.

Directions For Disinfection.

Either corrosive sublimate or formalin may be used to disinfect the seed. Both may be obtained from any drug store. Corrosive sublimate is the better. Before commencing to treat the potatoes, pour some water over them or soak them in a tank of water in order to soften the black scurf and remove the dirt which it present weakens the solutions. Treat seed before it is cut.

The corrosive sublimate solution is made by dissolving 4 ounces of the powder in about a gallon of boiling water, then diluting to 30 gallons. Treat as many potatoes at one time as the solution will cover, about 5 bushels. Leave the first lot in the solution 1 1/2 hours, the second lot 1 1/2 hours, and the third lot 2 hours. After three treatments the solution is weakened so that it is not very effective. After treatment rinse off the solution with clean water and dry the potatoes at once. Then place them in clean crates and hold under normal light and temperature conditions until growth starts before planting. This aids germination and insures a good stand.

If formalin (formaldehyde 40%) is to be used, take 1 pint or pound and mix in 30 gallons of water. Soak as much seed as this will cover for 2 hours. The solution may be used for 3 or 4 lots of potatoes.

Read and Remember These!

Corrosive sublimate is a deadly poison if taken internally, therefore be very careful to keep it away from young children and all farm stock. The solution is colorless, tasteless, and odorless, and liable to be mistaken for water if left exposed. Corrosive sublimate corrodes metals rapidly and must be made up in barrels, tubs, wood or cement tanks. The hot water for dissolving the powder can be conveniently placed in glass fruit jars, stone jugs, or crocks. Avoid over-treatment either by too strong a solution or too long a time as it may kill the eyes and prevent germination. Potatoes should not be used for food after this treatment. After formalin treatment they may be safely fed to stock if thoroughly washed.

Potatoes to be used for seed may be treated any time after they are dug, but at least 2 or 3 weeks before planting. After treatment they should be kept in clean crates in order to prevent the diseases getting onto them a second time.

(NOTE—If not familiar with the different potato diseases in Wisconsin write to the Agricultural Experiment Station, Madison, for Circular No. 52.)

THE COMMUNITY IDEA

Comment and Suggestions Having the Welfare and Progress of Our Local Community as Its Object.

Community idea — — — — — multitude of needs.

Banks as well as stores are institutions for community service. Almost always they are boosters of every movement for community progress.

Banks are in business to make profit, of course. But, like stores, they can make their profit only as they serve the best interests of their community.

And the financial success of every community is in a large measure dependent upon banking service.

Aside from its general convenience as a depository for local funds, the bank's loan service is of direct benefit to all forms of business.

The merchant borrows that he may buy to better advantage and sell at a lower price. The farmer borrows to meet his larger necessities until crop returns are in. The demands upon a bank serve a multitude of needs. It is clear, then, that the bank maintains its place because it performs a community service. And we can easily appreciate the great inconvenience which all of us would suffer were the community without a good bank.

But we should remember that our banking services are made possible only by the business interests of the community, of which local merchants are a part.

For it is only through the complete cooperation of merchants, bankers, farmers and others that the community's business can be properly carried on and its citizens made prosperous.

Community cooperation is something in which every citizen may and should have a part. The more he does for the public welfare the more he advances his own personal interests.

WILL NOT HAVE NURSE.

Stevens Point will not have a visiting nurse for the schools during the 1917-18 year, according to present indications. Miss Mary O'Keefe, who is now serving her second year in the position, has tendered her resignation to the board of education and, in view of the increased cost of maintaining the school system, the board does not expect to engage a successor. It is figured that the saving thus made in the salary list will about take care of salary increases to grade teachers and members of the High school faculty. Stevens Point's experience with the visiting nurse plan has been highly satisfactory. Miss O'Keefe has done excellent work among the children of the city and the results attained have justified the expense.

MANY TABLETS DAMAGED.

About a hundred thousand tablets of different grades, some completed and some partly finished, were damaged by fire that broke out in the plant of the Alpine Stationery Co. on Brewery street last Saturday evening at 6:30 o'clock. Nobody was in the building at the time, so that the cause of the blaze is problematical. However, it is supposed to have been due to an overheated glue pot. Besides the damage to stock, machinery and other equipment was injured. The building itself, which is owned by W. E. Ule and L. J. Seeger, was damaged to the extent of about $800, while the Alpine Stationery Co.'s property damage amounts to about $3,000. The entire loss is fully covered by insurance. The fire will cause little interruption in the plant's activities, as the necessary repairs to be made will interfere but little with the regular work.

SHERRY.

Mrs. M. L. Hoisington is ill at the present time.

Miss Clara Farrell spent the weekend in Sherry.

Brice Dille visited in Sherry for a few days last week.

Mrs. Frank Parks returned home last Tuesday from Dodgeville.

Mr. Griffin of Waukesha has been visiting his cousin, Herman Jantz.

Richard Evans has so far recovered as get out to some extent now.

Tom Davis of Waupaca county has returned home after a pleasant visit here.

Raymond Thomas is home from Manitowoc for a visit with his parents.

Miss Jean Whitney and Miss Isla Davis of the Wood County Normal have been doing cadet work the past week. Miss Whitney taught at the school near Shidell's and Miss Davis at the school near Oliver Iverson's.

Prof. Glenn Bennett went to Marshfield Saturday but owing to the tie-up on the railroads, was unable to get back until the next day. The roads are in dangerous condition now and no church services were held Sunday in the Presbyterian church.

We were all much pleased to have Mr. Dowe with us again a week ago last Sunday, when he preached a fine sermon in the Presbyterian church. On Tuesday evening, he gave a splendid temperance address before a large audience in the church. He was also present at the missionary meeting and tea in the afternoon. The students of the N. C. I. heartily enjoyed his chapel talks to them on Monday and Tuesday mornings. During their stay in Sherry, Mr. and Mrs. Dowe were entertained at the home of Herman Jantz. On Monday they were the guests of the Zerneke families and on Tuesday they took dinner at the N. C. I.

A bill introduced in the legislature by Senator A. H. Wilkinson authorizes the university of Wisconsin to continue to conduct investigational and demonstrational work in order to determine the most efficient and economical methods of land clearing and provides an appropriation. Passage of the bill is being urged by people in all parts of the state and it is believed it will become a law. The land clearing work is conducted in upper Wisconsin, where several million acres of cut-over land are available for settlers. Since the first work along this line was done in September, 1915, the development of the state's agricultural resources has been given a new impetus. The entire state is benefited by the development of upper Wisconsin, and Senator Wilkinson's bill, as well as other measures that will speed up the reclamation work, should be given solid support.

BOOSTER DAY FOR NATIONAL HIGHWAY

Citizens Along Route of Yellowstone Trail Asked To Show Their Interest In Project.

To finance a national highway organization for an entire year in a single day, is the undertaking of the officers of the Yellowstone Trail Association, according to advices received by L. J. Seeger, trailman for Stevens Point, from the general offices of the Trail, at Aberdeen, S. D.

The Yellowstone Trail is the best organized highway in America. It owes the position that it has occupied among the highways of the country, in its proud place at the top, to two things: First, that it is an undivided route extending across the United States, and it has kept good faith with all the communities through which it passes. Second, it has a continuous and positive organization that works for the whole of the road 365 days in the year.

The Trail officers, of course, can only do the work of the organization by having money. The Trail is organized like a commercial club or chamber of commerce, having a membership along the Trail. These memberships are of four kinds:—Organization memberships, that is, memberships held by a town through its commercial club, chamber of commerce, auto club or other civic organization. Individual memberships of one year, five years and life, the fee varying with the kind.

The Trail has big plans for 1917. The officers are working to have every foot of the Trail designated as state highway through the several states. Free touring information bureaus are to be put into service at Chicago, Minneapolis, Miles City and Seattle; a publicity tour by the personal representatives of governors of the several states is to be made, the whole party being guests of the Trail Association; the whole of the Trail is to be remarked under a uniform system; and the organized activity for keeping the road in good condition, is going to be maintained more actively than ever. A new route folder is now being printed.

All of these plans, of course, require money. The reports for 1916 show that the Trail Association had a total of $6,600.00 to work with in 1916. The actual expense was $7,100.00. State meetings have been held in all states, and at these meetings it was the sense of those gathered that the fund was too small to carry on a work of such proportion.

April 3, 1917, is the day set for citizens to do their part. A report will be sent out all along the Trail showing exactly what each town on the Trail did on that day. Mr. Seeger is very anxious that Stevens Point do her full share in this undertaking.

MANY TAKE EXAMS.

Thirty-five persons wrote in the United States civil service examinations conducted at the High school last Saturday by Secretary R. C. Porter and F. J. Blood. Three of these are candidates for the position of postmaster at Custer, for which there were no applicants when a previous examination was announced, while the rest desire positions as rural mail carriers. Appointments as rural carriers are to be made for this city and Amherst Junction.

BACK INTO SERVICE

Frank Hyer of This City Leaves To Join Sparta Company of Second Wisconsin.

As a part of the program to place the nation on a war footing, the war department has ordered into the federal service National Guard units in various parts of the country. In Monday's order was listed the Third Wisconsin Regiment, which includes the Sparta company, of which Frank Hyer, son of Prof. and Mrs. F. S. Hyer of this city, is a member.

The young man has been attending Ripon college since the first of the year. He arrived home early yesterday morning, and this morning left for Sparta to report for duty. He joined the Guard last June and served for six months on the Mexican border, returning home in December.

A dispatch from Madison says: "Upon receipt of the order from the war department, General Holway dispatched telegrams to every company commander in the state ordering them to mobilize their companies in local armories and await further orders."

"General Barry, commander in chief of the central division of the war department, Chicago, will detail the companies to their assignments."

"Explanation for the calling out of Wisconsin Third Regiment was given in the telegram received by Holway. It declared the troops were needed to afford more perfect protection in Wisconsin against possible interference with postal, commercial and military channels of the government."

"Cities having companies in the Third are: Neillsville, Wausau, Mauston, Portage, Menomonie, Eau Claire, Superior, Hudson, La Crosse, Sparta and Tomah."

WOULD HAVE JURIES.

The recent decision by Judge B. B. Park in the certiorari proceedings begun by Leo A. Boyanowski, in which the court held that the laws governing the operation of the municipal court do not grant the right of trial by jury in cases of violations of the city ordinances, has resulted in a bill being introduced in the legislature by Assemblyman Whiteside of this county, granting that right. The bill has already passed the assembly and it now before the senate. Its introduction was on request of local lawyers. Opposition to it is on the grounds that juries are expensive and cumbersome.

FARMERS ARE BUYING STAVE SILOS EARLY

New Plan Being Taken Advantage of

Saving $20 to $40

Wood and Portage county farmers are "getting right on the Silo question." Many are finding out where from $20 to $40 of the money they pay for a Silo goes.

Farmers Mislead

Laborious efforts have been made to convince farmers that Silos are made in a factory, the same as machinery, automobiles or furniture. As a matter of fact, Silo Staves are made in a saw and planing mill, the same as other finished lumber, while the hardware fixtures are made in a factory in a different part of the country.

The component parts are then shipped to the Silo factory to be assembled and re-shipped to the farmer customer.

Many Charges Added

Factory investment, repairs, depreciation, heavy overhead expenses, agents' commissions, extra freight from mill to factory and factory to farmer, etc., are being done away with. Farmers are now buying Fullton and description of the Silo. Adv.

Length Clear Fir Stave Silos with Hinge Doors, etc., at prices less than most firms are charging for the old style two piece Silos.

The New Plan

The Suwane Lumber Company, who have retail lumber yards at Rudolph and Milladore, have made arrangements with a large foundry in Racine, Wis., to furnish them with Silo Fixtures at Factory prices. These come direct from this foundry to their yards. They buy Clear Fir Silo Staves direct from the West Coast saw mills in full carload lots at the lowest market prices.

ONLY ONE PROFIT

The Staves plus the hardware fixtures constitute everything (even all screws and bolts) required to erect the Silo. One profit is all you have to pay and this profit is less than the exclusive Silo concern can do business on, as this Lumber Company sells these Silos along with their regular lumber business.

In this way farmers are saving considerable money on each Silo and they can see the Silo before buying it.

Investigate It

If you are interested in this plan of buying your Silo, drop them a card and you will receive full information and description of the Silo. Adv.

The carnival is conducted under the auspices of the University of Pennsylvania. A movement is on foot to send a relay team representing the local school to the meet although nothing definite has been done regarding the matter as yet.
"Motto Day" was observed by the Senior class on Friday of last week, when the following interesting program was carried out: Unveiling of class motto; anagram, eighteen seniors; poem, George Moxon; history of the Junior year of the class of 1917, Gretchen Gilmore; history of senior year, Arthur Held; "Keep Going," Charlotte Nachtwy; senior song, members of the Senior class.
The championship basketball game of the girls' tournament between the primary and home economics teams will be played in the Normal gym on Monday evening, April 2. The two winning teams will be guests of honor at a dinner party to be given by Dr. J. M. Bischoff at his home in this city in the near future.
More than five hundred persons attended the demonstration given in the Normal gymnasium last Thursday afternoon by the students of training school under the direction of Miss Mary Bronson. The program given represented the regular gymnasium work done by all of the training school students with the exception of the boys above the fifth grade, who receive their work from other instructors. The program included marches, Swedish folk dances, Scotch folk dances, Swedish gymnastics, games and interpretative dances.
The first annual minstrel show will be given by the boys' glee club of the school in the Normal auditorium on Monday evening, April 16. PUSH CO-OP DELIVERY

Committee Lines Up Interested Merchants and Will Have General Meeting Monday.

With seventeen grocers and meat dealers ready to take business and at least eight others in sight, Stevens Point's proposed co-operative delivery system looks like a go.
The committee of six appointed at the recent meeting, which Donald Johnson, manager of the Grand Rapids system, spoke, interviewed a large number of citizens Monday afternoon and received so much encouragement that they have decided to go ahead with the preliminary plans.
A general meeting of merchants will be held at the public library at 7:30 o'clock next Monday evening, in connection with the regular monthly meeting of the Retailers' association. It is expected that something definite will be accomplished at that time.
The committee is anxious to have a meeting soon, but all are busy with their regular work. So far but little business has been encountered. The committee is of the opinion that if a co-operative system will improve the service and at the same time lessen the cost, as is the case in other cities has in the case of Stevens Point should be a successful system.

SENIOR CLASS PLAY.

The High School Senior class play committee, consisting of Ruth Eagleburger, Grace Curtis, Robert Urbahn, and Raymond Pfiffer, with Robert Urbahn as chairman, and under the personal supervision of Miss Helen Humphrey, have decided upon the play to be given by the Senior class this year.

It will be "The Man on the Box," which is at present a very popular play, and commands a high royalty. In fact the royalty on this play is higher than any ever heretofore paid by a Senior class of the Stevens Point High.

The place for the presentation of the play has not as yet been decided upon, but it is expected that it will be given either at the Lyric or in the Normal auditorium.

The cast is to be chosen by a committee selected from the faculty and will be coached by Mrs. C. F. Watson. Rehearsals will begin as soon as additional copies of the play, which have been ordered, arrive.

WILL BE PATRIOTIC.

Weber's Band Decides To Include National Airs In Concert Program Thursday.

The concert to be given at Empire Amusement hall tomorrow evening will include a number of patriotic airs as a result of a revision of the program. There will be a medley of national airs, and the concert will close with The Star Spangled Banner, which the audience will be requested to sing.

The rest of the two-hour program will include popular and classical selections by the band and selections by a male quartet composed of Russell Moen, Fred Leonard, Ernest Badten and Carl Kelsey. Mr. Moen will sing "Yaaka Hula" as he did in the Elks' minstrel a couple of months ago.
The concert will start at 8:30 o'clock and indications are that the hall will be filled.

EAU CLAIRE IS WINNER

Wapuca Highs Eliminated at State Basketball Tournament at Menomonie.

The second annual state basketball tournament conducted under the auspices of the Normal schools of Wisconsin was held at Stout Institute, Menomonie, on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of last week. Wapuca, representing the local Normal district, was early eliminated from the race, although they made a strong showing and were voted one of the hardest fighting teams contesting.
Eau Claire won the championship Saturday evening by defeating Waukesha 15 to 3, dropping the losers to second place. Through the withdrawal of Menomonie, the Edgerton team was given third place.
Wapuca played their first game against the quintet representing the Galesville Highs and received a decisive defeat, the final score being 26 to 15. Unfamiliarity with a large floor is given as a reason for Wapuca's showing the first half. In the second half they came back strong and scored 11 points to their opponents 6, but the early lead of Galesville had already insured victory for that team. The Wapuca five unquestionably met with hard luck in their second contest when they were eliminated from the tournament in an overtime game by Menomonie, losing by one point, the final count being 11 to 10.

FORMER RESIDENT DEAD.

Sanford Sexsmith, a former resident of this city, died at his home in Fond du Lac early yesterday morning, following an illness of more than four months. Mr. Sexsmith was a native of Sophiamburg, Canada, and nearly 72 years of age. He located in Fond du Lac in 1865, but later was for eight years a resident of Stevens Point. During his residence here he was in the blacksmith business with the late J. R. Brinker. His home has been in Fond du Lac for a long period of years and he was also engaged in the blacksmith business there. His widow, a daughter, Alma, and a son, Emerson, all of Fond du Lac, and a sister, Mrs. A. Furstnow of Miles City, Mont., survive. Mr. Sexsmith's widow is a sister of E. E. Wells of this city, who, with Mrs. Wells, will leave for Fond du Lac Thursday afternoon to attend the funeral, which will be held from the residence Friday afternoon. Rev. W. A. Hall, a former local Methodist minister, will officiate.

A Woman Highwayman

By LESTER VANDEVEER

I doubt if many women have made a greater swing of the pendulum of social convention than I. In the year 1790 I was put into a crib draped with Brussels lace. My father, the Duke of Montmarville, was a favorite of King Louis XVI, who showed him with favors. Ten years later my father had been executed in the reign of terror and I was an orphan.

But I was not the blood of war-dogs. I was a Turanne was an ancestor of mine. Naturally when I found that I could not make a living as a woman I turned to the career of a man. I would have fought for France, but my ancestors had saved their country under the royal standard bearing the fleur-de-lis. If I donned man's attire I must fight under the tricolor for the usurper Bonaparte, who was emperor by virtue of the blood of the king. No, I would not go into the army.
But I resolved to return to France. How I made my way there I can hardly recall. I had become accustomed to hardship that the days I traveled on foot, the nights I slept in woods, my breakfasts of berries, my dinners when I had them—given by some kindly farmer's wife, made no lasting impression on me.

I remember well that one day I found myself in boy's clothing at the gates of the chateau in which I was born. I asked a man passing who lived there. He said that an army contractor had bought the place from the government, which had confiscated it after cutting off the head of its owner, the Duke of Montmarville. Most women would have burst into tears. Instead, I was enraged.

"This is a world of robbery," I said, "and I will rob like the rest."

I stole a pistol, but I could find no ammunition to steal and had no money to buy any. But I soon had money aplenty, for I lay in wait for the contractor who occupied my birthplace, and when he was being driven into the gate by his fat coachman I stopped the coach, ordered the driver to dismount from the box and, opening the door, presented my unloaded pistol at the occupant and demanded his money. He happened to have a well filled purse, which he tremblingly handed me.

I found money made by robbing so easy and so lucrative that I bought a horse and equipment for the road. I did not think to wear a mask. I had no cause to hide my visage. I was the daughter of a duke, but not a soul in France knew me as such or knew me at all, for that matter. I robbed only at night, and no one could see my features in the darkness. One night I stopped a coach, and after receiving the contribution of a man in it and was about to turn away he said:

"Mademoiselle, I shall know that voice if I ever hear it again. You are not a man, but a woman."

"I care not if you do," I replied, "nor if you should see my features or know who I am, for mine is a wrecked life. I would it had been ended, as was my father's, on the guillotine."

"Who was your father?" he asked.
But I could not bring myself to let him know of the disgrace I had brought upon my family, and, putting spurs to my horse, I rode away.

A love for a life of adventure grew upon me, and I caught the spirit of a Claude Duval.

Hearing that a ball was to be given by a person whom Bonaparte had enriched as King Louis had enriched my father, a desire seized me to attend it dressed in the apparel of my sex. Donning an ordinary woman's clothing, I went to Paris and bought a costume fit for the rank to which I was entitled. On the night of the ball I hired a coach and a maid and when the entertainment was in full swing drove up to the door, alighted, went to a robing room and then down into the drawing room to the host and hostess, who were receiving their guests.

Madame looked at me in wonder, having never seen me before and uncertain whether I had been hidden or had come without an invitation. Her husband, who did not know all the guests, looked at me curiously. Their son, a man nearing thirty years of age, gazed at me with admiration as well as surprise.

"Pardon me," said his mother. "I do not recall your features."

"I am the Duchess of Mont what-you-like," I replied.

All looked at me in astonishment, but I saw the younger man start. He recovered his equanimity at once and, offering me his arm, led me away. As soon as we were out of hearing he turned to me and said:

"I told you that I would know your voice should I ever hear it again, and to convince you that I was right you are the highway woman who robbed me of 10 napoleons a few months ago."

I tried to disengage my arm from his that I might take to flight, but he was stronger than I and held me.

"Fear nothing," he said. "I will keep your secret."

I never again donned man's attire. My victim persuaded me to permit him through his father to plead my cause with Bonaparte, who was endeavoring to conciliate the old nobility of France. In the end I received back a portion of my estate, including the chateau, and I now live there peacefully with my husband, whom I robbed on the highway.

A Goat in a Studio.

Among other stories in the "Reminiscences of Augustus Salust Gaudens" by father and son is a confession by the son. When he was a boy in Cornish he had a pet goat which he had trained to play a button game. The goat would butt, Homer would dodge, and then, to his great glee, the goat would butt the wrong thing or the air. One day at dinner time when the studio barn was deserted Homer was playing this game. Beyond the open barn door stood the wax model of the Logan horse "waiting to be cast in plaster." This time when Homer dodged the goat butted the back of the horse; but, since it did not fall or break, the relieved child thought it wasn't hurt and didn't tell. Before any one noticed that "the rear of the animal was strangely askew" the horse had been cast in plaster and the enlargement begun. This meant the loss of a whole summer's work—just one more of the accidents and errors that increased the "toughness of the sculptor's life."—Ariadne Gilbert in St. Nicholas.

Early Day Railroad Travel.

On Nov. 26, 1883, a car made the first trip over the Portage railroad. This was the most remarkable engineering undertaking of the time. The railroad was thirty-six miles long, extending across the Allegheny mountains from Hollidaysburg to Johnstown. There were ten inclined planes, five on each side of the mountains. Trains at the top of each plane pulled up four cars at a time. The ascent on the east side measured 1,398 feet. Then there was a tunnel of 870 feet and a descent of 1,172 feet on the western side. Passengers on canal boats entered the cars at Hollidaysburg and were carried over the mountains, embarking in other boats on the western side and thus continuing their journey to Pittsburgh. Later boats were built so that they could be taken apart into three or four sections and placed on a car for the trip over the mountains. The construction of the Portage railroad cost $1,500,000.—Philadelphia Record.

Sorting Bottles by Touch.

One of London's queer trades is that of empty bottle sorting at the London bottle exchange, off Blackfriars road. These bottles have been salvaged from dust bins, cellars, the holds of ships and wherever bottles go astray. Every year at least 2,000,000 bottles, after many wanderings, find their way to the bottle exchange. They are sorted and returned to their rightful owners, who pay an annual subscription as well as a few shillings a gross for returned bottles. Reared on the bottle, as it were, a sorter at the exchange must be a man of keen eye and delicate touch. All that he has to guide him in thousands of cases is the embossed name on the glass, and swiftly, unerringly and with almost uncanny deftness he picks out a bottle which has wandered from Glasgow and puts it in the case bound for the north.—New York Sun.

Sixteenth Century Beef Pye.

A quaint publication is "The Booke of Cookerie," printed in the sixteenth century. The full title of the book is:

English Greetings.

Erasmus, coming to England in Henry VIII's time, was struck with the deep heartiness of our wishes—good, aye, and bad, too, but he most admired the good ones. Other nations ask in their greetings how a man carries himself, or how doth he stand with the world, or how doth he find himself. But the English greet with a pious wish that God may give one a good morning or a good evening, good day or "god'een," as the old writers have it, and when we part we wish that "God may be with you," though we now clip it into "Goodby."—Friswell.

His Foolish Father.

"I suppose you keep hard at work these days?"
"No. I'm not doing anything just now."

"I thought your father had given you a position in his bank?"

"He did. But he wanted me to earn my salary."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Polish.

"You have a bright look, my boy," said the visitor at the school.

"Yes, sir," replied the candid youth. "That's because I forgot to rinse the soap off my face good."

Giving Her Away.

"Uncle, we want you to give the bride away."

"Very well. I'll announce to the gathered assembly that she's thirty-two."—Boston Transcript.

Two Ways.

There are two ways of learning the value of anything we want. One is to get it, the other to lose it.—R. W. Kaufman.

If a man is square it is easy to get up with his sharp corners.

TRADER DECLARED SANE.
After a trial that was in progress Friday and Saturday and Saturday evening, Anton Trader, a resident of the town of Hull, was declared sane by a jury in county court. Trader, who is 71 years of age, was committed to the Northern asylum in the summer of 1916 and in the fall was paroled. He is possessed of considerable property, including a farm in Hull, and after his release from the asylum a guardian was appointed. A few weeks ago Trader started proceedings to establish his sanity and as a result of the outcome of the case he is discharged from parole and is in control of his property. He has a wife and eight children, all of whom appeared as witnesses. Attorney W. E. Fisher appeared for Trader and George B. Nelson for the state, the latter serving on request of District Attorney J. R. Pfiffner, who was disqualified by reason of having previously been Trader's attorney. This is the fourth time during his twenty-six years as county judge that Judge Murat has presided at a jury with a similar issue involved.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

Review of Events of Past Week at the Big Public School.

Mr. Loose, a student at Lawrence college, visited school Tuesday. He is a fraternity brother of Mr. Hunting and Mr. Tippett.

Eleanor and Carlos Furminger, former students of the Stevens Point High school, but now students at Appleton High, visited school for a couple of days this week. Miss Eleanor is a guest of Grace Curtis, while Carlos is visiting for a few days with George Law.

A large number of invitations to the annual Junior Promenade have been mailed and it is expected that this season's Prom will be attended by a very large crowd, as is most always the case. A general invitation will be extended to both Normal and High school men.

A triangular oratorical contest has been arranged between Marshfield, Medford and Stevens Point Highs. Miss Rodger has issued a call to all boys interested in oratory and it is expected that a goodly number of able orators will respond to the call. The triangular contest will take place the latter part of April or the first of May.

At an open meeting of "Die Germanistische Gesellschaft," the popular Stevens Point High school German club, a German farce comedy was presented. The name of the play was "Ein Knopf," and it was witnessed by a large number of students who claim to have some knowledge of the German language. Miss Lydia Homberger coached the cast in a very able manner.

A preliminary declamatory contest is to be held by the Clonian Literary society on Wednesday of this week, at which a large number of girls will compete for places on the Clonian team. The Thalian society will hold their preliminary contest on Friday. On the following Wednesday will be held an inter-society contest which will be contested by the winners of both preliminary contests. Much interest over the contest has been aroused among the girls and two lively declamatory contests are assured.

Local High school athletes are eagerly watching the disappearance of the snow and as soon as the weather becomes warmer and the track at the fair grounds dries up, Mr. Steckel will issue a call for athletes. "Prospects look good for a good track team this season," said Mr. Steckel. In former years it has been mostly up to the Junior and Senior classes to supply athletes to the team, but this year it is expected that the Freshmen and Sophomore classes will make a good showing, as these two classes contain a lot of track material. At any rate the local school will endeavor to win the cup which has been won by Wausau and Merrill twice each.

FIRST LICENSE ISSUED.

The first milk licenses under the rule of the board of health setting April 1 as the time limit, were issued yesterday. No. 1 went to Redfield & Smith, for 22 cows, and No. 2 to Joseph Schoettler, for three cows. (The cost is 10 cents for each cow.

TO GIVE ORATORIO.

Stainer's oratorio, "The Crucifixion," will be presented in the Episcopal Church of the Intercession on Wednesday, April 4, and Good Friday, April 6, at 8 o'clock in the evening. Besides about eighteen adult members of the choir, those who will take part include A. J. Miller, tenor, and Ernest Weber, A. R. Pott and Miss Grace Cauley, violinists. The oratorio is a beautiful composition and is especially adapted for presentation during the Easter season, and will be splendidly rendered. No admission will be charged but an offering will be taken to cover the necessary expenses. Palm Sunday will be observed next Sunday with the usual distribution of palms at the Church of the Intercession.

FENCE ESTABLISHES LINE

Interesting Decision in Boundary Case Handed Down by Judge Park Monday.

That a line fence that has been maintained for 25 years establishes a legal boundary between adjoining properties, is the ruling made by Judge B. B. Park in a decision handed down Monday in circuit court. J. J. Summers and William Parland own adjoining forty acres of land in the town of Linwood. A dispute arose in regard to the boundary line and Mr. Parland, following a line determined by a surveyor, built a new fence. This fence extended onto what Mr. Summers held was his land, and as a result he tore it down. Finally Mr. Parland staged suit to restrain Mr. Summers from destroying the fence.

The court held that the original fence establishes the true line and also holds that originally the true line ran slightly over the line on Mr. Parland's side.

The case involved ownership of only a small amount of land. In this case and in others that might have developed had the decision been against him Mr. Summers is interested in less than four acres.

GIFT TO LOCAL CHURCH.

A bequest of $100 in cash, from the estate of Mrs. Velma J. Lytle, who died at Tacoma, Wash., in December, 1915, has been received by St. Paul's M. E. church of this city. Mrs. Lytle was formerly a local resident and a member of the church. She was a sister of Mrs. Harriet E. Edwards of this city.

A Sketch of Twin Brothers

By F. A. MITCHEL

It is sweet and melancholy to go back in memory to our homes where we were youngsters. We did not realize how happy we were or at least how happy we should have been. I was one of twins, Tom and Jim. I was Tom. When Jim and I were between fifteen and sixteen we were like one person. And yet one seeing us together would never have considered us as such. We were always quarreling or seemed to be quarreling. With others it would have really been quarreling; with us there was no quarrel at all. We were speaking in a language we both understood perfectly.

I remember waking up one morning and seeing Jim at the dresser putting on a shirt that I had kept laundered to wear on an especial occasion.

"What in thunder are you doing?" I yelled.

No answer.

"You blankety-blank robber, if you don't put that shirt back in the drawer I'll get up and break every bone in your body!"

Jim had the shirt on and was tying my best cravat around his neck. I launched anathemas and threats without number, but they availed nothing. Jim went out with my appropriated togery, and I turned over for another nap.

When we were about sixteen Jim became enamored of a girl exactly our age. I remember that she wore her hair in a number of beautiful curls. There was something bewitching in her tossing them aside when they got in her way. Just as soon as Jim lost his heart to her my wardrobe became especially subject to his depredations.

I had a weakness for jewelry. I had saved my money and bought a gold locket, which I used for a fob. The watch at the other end of the ribbon was an old one in a silver case. It was of no use except for an excuse to display the trinket at the other end. One day I missed my locket. I didn't see how it could have been stolen, because nothing else in the house had been missed.

The next time I saw Jim's girl what was my astonishment to see my locket suspended to her neck. Jim had stolen it? No; he had simply appropriated it as common property between brothers. He knew very well that I would see it on his girl and would know that he had taken it. There is nothing like stealing about that. It is simply claiming one's own.

There must have been the dawn of manhood in me, for when I was about to blurt out that the locket belonged to me I restrained myself. I took a much more honorable way—so I considered it—to repossess myself of my property. I asked to be permitted to examine the locket, and when it was handed to me I declined to return it.

Lucy—that was her name—upbraided me and called upon Jim, who was present, to secure the return of her treasure. Jim was in a fix. He took me aside and offered me a scarfpin and a plated gold chain if I would let the matter stand for awhile as his gift to Lucy. I told him that if he would add a red cravat of his that I coveted I would condone his offense and leave the locket in his girl's possession. Making a virtue of necessity, he yielded to my dainty terms, and I returned the locket to Lucy.

That was many years ago. I have forgotten what became of the locket, but it is my impression that it never came back to me, though Jim changed his girl very soon after his stopping my mouth with his pinchbeck jewelry and a well worn necktie.

Then came my turn to get a girl. I wish I could feel toward a woman today as I felt toward that girl. Phoebe was her name, and I considered her radiantly beautiful. I have since seen a picture of her taken at that time, and I have been surprised to see that she was red headed, freckled and snub nosed.

I invited my girl to go to ride with me. Unfortunately I did not keep my intention from Jim, and the day I drove up to the house of my ladylove he drove up there, too, with a chain of his in a suitless pair of wheeling gals.

"Go away," I said to him.

He laughed at me. I threatened and begged. He was not to be moved. I went into the house and brought out Phoebe. This being the first time I had ever taken a girl to ride, I suffered with a painful embarrassment, but the presence of Jim and his friend was positively horrible.

Phoebe saw them and realized what they were up to, but pretended not to notice them. When I drove away they followed me, but after awhile they turned on a different road.

I inwardly resolved that when I returned I would kill Jim. Yes, I would kill him! If I were hanged for murder I would die in a good cause. But Jim knew well enough the storm that would burst upon him and kept out of my way till my rage had cooled. When I saw him next he was sitting on the porch under our bedroom window. Going to the bathroom, I filled a bucket of water, carried it to the window and dropped the contents on my recent tormentor.

My action for Phoebe proved as short lived as my intention to commit murder. I forgot her in many other things. It simply came to me as a rebuke at the time passed on of my life. As Jim and I grew older our outward treatment of each other changed. But our inward feeling was the same.

It Did.

In "Bohemian Days in Fleet Street" the following story of Charlie Williams, the war correspondent, appears: "Charlie Williams could have given Baron Munchausen a stone and a beating. He spoke with a rasping North of Ireland accent, and his campaign anecdotes gained greatly by the stolid, matter of fact manner in which they were narrated. I recall now one of his campaign reminiscences. It is a quaint experience of a correspondent under fire.

"I had got under cover of a big bowlder and had tethered my horse beside me. I was just munchin' a beskit, when a shell burst on the rock an' shot the nosebag right off my charger. He had shoved his coud head out of cover."

"And you?" asked Pearce.

"I just went on munchin' my beskit."

"But," suggested Dunning, "if the shell took away the nosebag it ought to have carried away the beast's head as well."

"It did," replied Williams, with the utmost sang froid.

Watch the Clock.

If the passion for efficiency accomplishes nothing more it will—indeed, it has already—upset one of the most sacred tenets that altruistic employers ever put into the constitution and by-laws for the observance of employees. That tenet is, Don't watch the clock. It was hoped, of course, that if employees could be made to forget the clock they might also forget to go home at the expiration of the time for which they were paid.

Efficiency now makes the revolutionary demand that you should never take your eyes from the clock. To be a topnotcher in efficiency you must go even further. You must get a stop watch with split second hands and make sure that each minutest division of time has assigned to it a precise and particular action, being or state. Watch the clock, my boy—watch the clock if you want to make a success in this world.—Ellis O. Jones in Lippincott's.

The Mullingers and the Hapsburgs.

The Mullingers are one of those old Swiss families concerning whom my friend Dr. Curti, distinguished Swiss national historian and director of the Frankfurter Zeitung, recently told me the following amusing incident, writes a correspondent.

Years ago a Mullinger was one of the staff of the Swiss legation at Vienna. On being presented to the Emperor Francis Joseph he bluntly expressed his pleasure at making the acquaintance of his majesty, which pleasure, he added, was all the greater since "in times gone by the Hapsburgs were mere retainers of the Mullingers."

"In that case," the emperor is said to have replied, "I think you will admit that my family has got on better in the world (hat es weiter gebracht) than yours."—London Chronicle.

Try It on the Dog.

The farmer looked at the stranger and shook his head.

"What d'ye call yourself?" he asked.

"The Orpheus of the barnyard," replied the caller.

"What'n Tophet is that?" demanded the agriculturist.

The stranger smiled.

"A college professor has declared that hens will not lay at certain seasons unless they are amused. I'm the man who sits on a barnyard fence and amuses them. See, here is my mouth organ, and here is my tambourine. I play and sing and crack jokes until the hens roll over in sheer delight—and all for 50 cents an hour."

The farmer eyed him moodily.

"I wonder," he said, "how your talents would impress the dog? Here, Rover!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

One Way to Cure "Nerves."

We remember hearing of an Englishman, a distinguished soldier, who was naturally a very nervous boy, but who had cured himself of the infirmity through reading Lever's novels. The manner in which Lever treats of all bodily perils as a kind of joke introduced him to a new philosophy that made any exaggeration of the advantages of bodily safety seem not only absurd, but ridiculous.—London Spectator.

Trapping a Coyote.

The coyote is one of the vilest and hardest of all fur bearing animals to trap. He delights in digging up traps, springing them, eating the bait and otherwise disturbing the set without getting caught. His sense of smell is very acute. The best way to trap him is to build a boudoir over the set after the traps have been properly placed. Throw into the embers some bacon rinds, chicken bones or, better yet, bones of sage hen or grouse. The coyote habitually searches about campfires for stray bits of meat and is therefore less wary. The fire obliterates the traces of the set, eliminates the tracks and smell of a human being, and the odor of the burned meat will attract him from a long distance. He is more likely to walk into the trap thus disguised with the remnants of a campfire than any other unless you have a carcass literally surrounded with traps with a severe winter on and no other carcasses within miles.—W. F. Wilcox in Farm and Fireside.

Meeting Mrs. Spider.

In "Insect Biographies With Pen and Camera" the author pictures the plight of the unlucky fly who has entered Mrs. Spider's parlor:

It is struggling to escape from the unexpected net which in some mysterious manner has suddenly enveloped it when a creature of terrible aspect hastily rushes out upon it. Eight head-like eyes glare wildly upon the terrified fly. A large, hairy and bristly finger-like palpus on each side of this appalling face waves and flourishes with angry menace in the air, apparently quivering with malignant glee. Then one of those combed and clawed feet is stretched toward the hapless prisoner, and the threads that hold the fly are suddenly tightened up as the monster pulls them together. Then the spinnerets eject a shower of silken strands over the fly, and it is spun round and round on the threads that hold it until at last it is securely enveloped, still alive, in silken bonds.

Artistic Temperament Cured.

It will be news to many of her myriads of admirers to hear that that noble artist Titens "used to suffer from a bad temper, and in these outbursts she felt a strong desire to smash anything that came handy." How Titens was ultimately cured of the habit Mr. Ganz relates in his reminiscences: "She was sitting at supper after a concert in a provincial town when the manager made some remark which annoyed her. As usual, she took the first thing that came to hand, a soda water bottle, and flung it at him. The manager was sitting at the table with his back to the window. The bottle missed him, smashed through the window and nearly killed a casual passerby. This, said Titens, gave her such a shock that she was completely cured of her falling."—Pall Mall Gazette.

Clear Seeing Massenet.

Critics have not yet assigned the late M. Massenet his permanent niche in the temple of fame, but most of them agree that he was a charming, although not a great, composer. He had one quality of character, however, which is not the invariable accompaniment of genius, musical and other—he could appreciate genius in others. An anecdote taken from the Paris Figaro attests it:

A critic was indulging in extravagant praise of Massenet to his face and wound up his flattery:

"Wagner! What was he? His talent is most absurdly exaggerated. I have to pick and choose among a lot of rubbish in Wagner."

"Is that so?" commented Massenet suavely. "I should be quite happy with what you leave."

Birds.

The first "birds" were not much like those of the present time. The pterodactyl, supposed to be the pioneer of bird life, was a great feather winged monster, with great spurs on the hinges of the wings and a mouth full of sharklike teeth. The pterodactyl did not sing, and could we have seen him we would not have felt like singing ourselves. True birds, and especially the warblers, are very late in geologic time. There was no bird melody in the carboniferous jungles. The singers, in all probability, did not greatly subside the human race.—New York American.

Where Sentiment Stops.

Mary Johnson in her book "Hagar" has Mrs. Green, one of the characters, reply to the heroine's wish that she could make money by saying: "It ain't so easy for women to make money. There's more ways they can't than they can. It's what they call 'sentiment' fights them. Sentiment don't mind their being industrious, but it draws the line at their getting money for it."

A White Hope.

"I have a mind to give you a good whipping!" exclaimed the impatient father.

"Well," replied the athletic youth, "maybe you can, but if you succeed it will be some item for the sport page."—Washington Star.

SNOW MELTS RAPIDLY.

What sunshine and warm breezes, not to mention a March rain, will do to the winter's accumulation of snow has been demonstrated during the past week. Although the volume of snow was the greatest in years, it has rapidly diminished and in places streets and yards are bare. The country roads, where huge drifts had formed and the snow packed down by travel, are still in bad shape. In the city sleighs have disappeared, but they are being used to some extent in the rural districts. The season's first rain storm occurred Thursday evening, beginning at about 10 o'clock and continuing an hour or more. It included lightning and thunder and came so suddenly that many persons were caught without umbrellas.

DICKENS' ROMANCE.

His Early Love, Who Jilted Him, and Her Pathetic End.

The story of how Charles Dickens was jilted is particularly interesting. When he was eighteen Dickens became acquainted with the three daughters of George Beadnell, a Lombard street banker. With one of them, Maria (the original of Dora in "David Copperfield"), who was a year his senior, he immediately fell in love, and Maria flirted with him very desperately. But the love making of the future novelist was not treated very seriously, for he was not considered by any means an eligible party, and even Maria herself adopted an attitude of amused tolerance.

For three years the affair went on, and then Dickens realized that his case was hopeless. He pleaded in vain with the girl, whose caprices maddened and gladdened him alternately, for, as a matter of fact, Maria Beadnell was a willful coquette. The end of it all was a reply that held out no hope, and so the parting came. For twenty years they saw no more of one another.

Ultimately Maria Beadnell was married to Henry Louis Winter, and when Dickens met her again time had wrought sad havoc on his youthful ideal. Mrs. Winter wrote to her old lover, but Dickens did not care to renew a correspondence with his old sweetheart. Then Mr. Winter failed, and the chagrined wife appealed to the lover of her girlhood for help, but without avail, and the romance ended long before the death of Dickens in 1870.—Exchange.

THE LADY EXPLAINED.

Then He Probably Smiled, but It Must Have Been a Sickly Effort.

A woman with fifteen bundles boarded the street car the other afternoon when I was on my way to my suburban residence. She was a very pretty young woman. I felt sorry for her. She was returning from a shopping tour. Being a man with a kind heart, I helped her upon the car and piled her bundles about her. A man got on at the same time and took a seat on the other side of the young lady.

When the car came to my street I was surprised to see her rise and begin to pick up her bundles. Instantly my sense of chivalry prompted me to help her off the car, and, as I was going in the same direction, I asked permission to carry her fifteen bundles. The man got off also and started on ahead.

I was loaded down like a camel crossing the desert. In those packages she had everything from an electric flatiron to a five pound bag of prunes. We trudged along about a half mile. The man turned in at a gate.

When we reached this gate the young lady thanked me and said: "This is as far as I go. I live here. Thank you very much."

"But the man ahead of us, the man who came out on the car with us, turned in here too."

"Yes," she said. "He is my husband, but he hates to carry packages through the street."—Brooklyn Eagle.

DIES OF HEART FAILURE

Mrs. Martin Gardinier Dies Few Moments After Being Stricken Saturday Evening.

Stricken with heart failure as she was preparing the evening meal, Mrs. Martin Gardinier, an esteemed local resident, passed away very suddenly at 6 o'clock last Saturday evening. Mrs. Gardinier had just entered the dining room at her home, 634 Church street, with some dishes when she collapsed. Her husband went to her assistance, but in a few moments life was extinct.

Although Mrs. Gardinier had been in failing health for a year or more and under a doctor's care much of the time, her death was wholly unexpected and was a keen shock to relatives and friends.

Helen M. Clayton was born August 28, 1849, on a farm near Whitewater, Walworth county. She attended the rural school in her home community during her girlhood and forty-six years ago was married to Mr. Gardinier. Soon afterward they went to Chelsea, where Mr. Gardinier had previously resided. For a period of years thereafter they lived at Medford and Fifield and later returned to Chelsea, Mr. Gardinier being in the hotel business at each place.

The family came to Portage county many years ago and for a few years lived on a farm in Buena Vista. Leaving the farm they came to Stevens Point, which has been their home ever since.

Mrs. Gardinier is survived by her husband, who is a veteran of the Civil war, and one son, Chester A. Gardinier, of this city. The son, with his wife, left here early in February on a western trip. They were notified by telegram of Mrs. Gardinier's death and arrived here this afternoon. Other surviving relatives include a brother, George W. Clayton of Chicago, and three sisters, Mrs. Shepard Philpot, Cedar Falls, Ia.; Mrs. Sarah Cooper, Omaha, and Mrs. Ida J. Walker, Northport, Waupaca county.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. G. M. Calhoun at the family home this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The body will be taken to Northport Thursday morning for interment beside Mrs. Gardinier's mother and one sister. The following from outside the city attended the services: George W. Clayton, Chicago; Mrs. Mary E. Vosburg, Waupaca; the Misses Myrt and Evelyn Combs, Royalton, and Thomas Walker, Northport.

The death of Mrs. Gardinier occasions much sorrow among her friends, to whom she had endeared herself by her many admirable qualities.

COMPLETE PLANS SOON.

Plans for the new Soo line depot and auxiliary building on the South Side are being completed at Minneapolis, according to Supt. C. E. Urbahn, who returned this morning from a trip to that city. The drawings are expected to be here in a week or two and will probably be displayed in some conspicuous place in the business district. Mr. Urbahn has the names of a half dozen local contractors who expect to bid on the work. The old depot building has been wrecked, all that remains being the floor, around which a fence has been erected.

STUDENTS BUY FLAG.

Students of the local Normal are raising a fund for the purchase of a large American flag which will be hung on the back wall of the stage of the Normal auditorium. The proposition was suggested this morning by Profs. M. M. Ames and Jas. E. Dellzell and favorably accepted by the school. The material for the flag may be purchased and the emblem made in the home economics department, or else purchased outright, this to be determined by a committee. The salute to the flag was given by the student body yesterday morning following an address by Pres. S. M. appropriate to the salutation.

Driven to It.

"You ask me for help, and I dare say you have done a lot of work since the day you were born," started Mr. Collier.

"Oh, sir," answered the landman, "you do me a great injustice. I had a cruel parent, sir, and many a time, after he had whipped me, I went forth and milked the cows."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

CITIES COUNTY CASE

Milwaukee Paper, In Editorial On Potato Propagation, Mentions Amherst Junction.

How a farmer of Amherst Junction, this county, raised 347 pounds of potatoes from six seed potatoes was commented on editorially in the Milwaukee Free Press of Sunday. The editorial, which was devoted to the question of maximum yield, is as follows:

In view of the current talk about expense of seeding and scarcity of seed potatoes, it is in order to recall what has been verified by actual experiment as to the possible yield from a single tuber. Eugene Durand, a 12-year-old boy of Albany, N. Y., competing for a prize offered by the state fair board for the largest yield from one seed potato, succeeded in raising 686 pounds (twelve bushels) of contest quality and size, leaving at home about two bushels of culls. So far as known, this is fully twice the yield ever recorded from one potato.

The seed potato chosen had fourteen eyes. Each of these was planted in a hole. When the sprout was about three inches high, it was cut and planted in sand, where it took root, and was then set out in soil prepared for potatoes. New shoots kept growing, and he kept rooting and transplanting them, and great was the harvest.

This comes as close as possible to the genuine experimenters have been trying to put in practice, namely, that of growing potatoes from seed. Present methods have been thought wasteful, and conducive to disease. The design was not only to economize seed potatoes, but to avoid the transmission of fungus and other diseases and blights, which would not be likely to attack potatoes grown from seed on uninfected soil.

Considering the proved superiority of high grade seed potatoes—the department of agriculture asserts that by this means alone the crop can be increased 10 per cent—these methods of causing a single tuber to multiply itself thus rapidly in a single growing season have a practical value, since they extend the seeding possibilities of a new and choice variety far beyond the ordinary rate of reproduction.

From the Wisconsin potato belt come records of banner crops raised by less specialized methods in potato growing. An Amherst Junction farmer secured six tubers of the Enormous variety, and cut them for planting into small pieces of one eye each. From the increase of these six specimen potatoes were dug 347 pounds of potatoes, just short of six bushels.

Another first class crop grown in Easton, Marathon county, averaged 357 bushels to the acre. A crop raised in the Peshtigo valley, near North Crandon, demonstrated the possibilities of northern Wisconsin as a potato country. From three acres of Gault potatoes were dug 1,026 bushels, an average of 342 bushels per acre. As this last was prior to the era of sky-high potatoes, they sold at 75 cents a bushel. At present prices they would have brought at least $700; not so much as the New Jersey farmer made who paid off a $20,000 mortgage last fall with 9,300 barrels of potatoes grown on his 230-acre farm, but a remunerative return for the amount of labor expended.

PROPHET PROMISES PROFIT.

And it shall come to pass that there shall be a new Epidemic abroad in the land—the Epidemic of Health. And the old Epidemics shall pass away and there shall be no more Scarlet Fever, nor Whooping Cough, nor Measles, nor Infantile Paralysis. And the Running Nose shall be no more, and the Cough and the Sneezes. And Terror shall be banished from the heart and Sorrow from the home. The undertaker shall waste away of famine and the Maker of Small Coffins shall be without a job. The Contagion of Joy, and Prosperity shall spread throughout the land and there shall be no Quarantine raised against it. The Ruddy Cheek, the Sparkling Eye, the Active Mind and Body shall be the heritage of all the people and of their children and their children's children through all the generations. The Public Health Forces shall keep guard over them lest an enemy sneak in unawares and they shall live long in the knowledge so long refused because they saw not its Value.—So say, the Prophet.

The above prophecy introduces a sixteen page pamphlet devoted to indicating briefly specific health activities which have been introduced in various schools of Wisconsin, rural as well as city. If you are interested in getting a glimpse of this work, if you are interested in the health of children, if you are concerned about proper food for the school child, you will find much of definite value within the pages of this little booklet. It will open your eyes to some splendid things which are being done in Wisconsin which you know nothing about, and it will probably set you at work discovering if the children you are most interested in are getting the health education and the health advantages in their school to which they are entitled, and which children in some other cities of country districts are getting. It will also point the way for setting about this work intelligently.

For the community not yet awake to the value of establishing a close working relation between the home and the school, there should be much of inspiration in the practical results which have followed the waking up of other communities.

Upon the work in the schools rests the future of the public health movement, and in the hope of stimulating this work, a copy of the pamphlet, recording some of the activities now in progress, will be forwarded immediately on receipt of a request, sent by postcard, bearing your name and address, to the Health Instruction Bureau, University Extension Division, Madison, Wisconsin.

Steven-Walter Co. Gets Odd Shipment From Florida For Annual Church Festival.

A half carload of palms from Florida, for use in the annual observance of Palm Sunday, April 1, has been received by the Steven-Walter Co., Stevens Point's church goods house. The palms were ordered expressly for churches in Stevens Point and upper Wisconsin and Minnesota. They are of excellent quality and the size of the shipment is unusual in this part of the state.

W. J. Gabryszyk, manager of the Steven-Walter Co., states that the company's business is exceptionally good. The volume is so large that the company's force is hard pressed to handle it.

The company's first catalog is now in the printer's hands. It will contain 200 pages and will be devoted to church and society banners, badges, and a catalog of general church goods. It will be issued as soon as the market becomes settled.

While connected with a similar establishment in Green Bay, Mr. Gabryszyk sent out a catalog of 236 pages last year.

The Awakening of Spring

This is a personal invitation to you. Will you accept it?

Our spring and summer stock of footwear, selected with utmost care, from several specialty factories, is now ready for your inspection.

We are particularly anxious for you to make an early call and selection, because many of the choice styles are limited in quantity to keep them from becoming "common"—a feature of this store that is popular among fashionable women.
